LIVELY TIMES AT GREENVILLE.

Charleston, S. C., October 8.—(Special.)— Telegrams from Constable Workman to Governor Tillman indicate that they had a somewhat lively time of it up in Greenville today. During the morning Governor Tillman received a telegram from the constable that he had stopped and seized a trunk which contained some export beer. The trunk, he stated, came from the residence of Mr. H. C. Marks, and, believing that there was other liquer in the house of Mr. Marks, Constable Workman had sworn out a search warrant before the local trial justice and given it to the sheriff to execute. Constable Workman telegraphed that the sheriff had declined to make the

The state committee is tonight sending out a letter written by ex-Secretary W. C. Whitney, dated at Roslin, L. I. The letter is addressed to Mr. Hinckley, the state chairman. Mr. Whitney explains why he did not accept either the charmanship or a on the state committee, stating that it was not from an indisposition to as sist in the campaign but from reasons rely private. He reminds Mr. Hinckley that he two years ago refused a similar osition on the national committee for pre sely the same reasons. He added that he

He thought that never before in the history of the party had there party differences and stand together for the mon good as like the present occasion. in detail the manner in which the party had, during the past year, performed the was not the time for discussion of differences. It was a time, he thought, for an attack upon the common enemy. New York state he believed to be the pivotal state, and defeat here would mean discouragement for democrats and encouragement for republicans throughout the entire country. Mr. Whitney said that he would not attempt to disguise the fact that there was a great deal of dissatisfaction in the party ranks. He said that many considered the state organization management narrow and arbitrary. He did not propose to quarrel with any one for manifesting this feeling, ut he wished to remind all that the policy of the republican leaders had been even atorial. Had they shown a dis more dictatorial. Had they shown a disposition to meet the independent voters of the state and city of New York half way, they could appeal to the people on a non-partisan basis. Instead of doing this they have insisted that the Tammany hall machine shall be succeeded by a republican machine. This was not the conduct of men who place the general welfare above the greed of public plunder.

Mr. Whitney then cited the work of the constitutional convention as another illus-

Mr. Whitney then cited the work of the constitutional convention as another illustration of the extreme partisanship of the republican party. Secretary Smith Returns to Washington and Talks About the Election. Washington, October 8.—Secretary Hoke Smith, who has just returned from Georgia, speaking today of the recent Georgia elections, said:

"The state, ticket has been elected by between 30,000 and 35,000 majority. It is manifestly unfair to compare this election with the state election in 1892, when Governor Northen received a majority of 68,000. Then the republican state convention declined to endorse the populist candidate and failed to put out any candidates of their own. The colored teachers' conven-tions endorsed Governor Northen. Gov-ernor Northen, therefore, was not opposed by the republicans, but on the contrary was supported by the majority of them. In the presidential election of 1892 both the republicans and the populists had tickets in the field and the democratic majority was 38,000, only 5,000 more than the majority in the recent election. This year the re-publican state convention endorsed the populists and the republicans voted almos solidly for their ticket. It is but fair that the comparisons should be made with the lemocratic majority in the presidential el tion. This shows a difference of only 5,000 votes and I believe that this will be aucounted for by the light vote polled. It is an interesting fact that the state committee did not spend $2,000 in the entire campaign. It is noticeable, too, that no reduction of majorities took place in the districts where the fight was conducted in line with a platform defending a sound currency."

THE DECISION RENDERED YESTERDAY Judge McIver, as He Did Before

Dissents from the Opinion. A LIVELY OLD TIME AT GREENVILLE

Trunk Containing Beer Taken from Residence-The Sheriff Refuses to Make a Search of the House.

Columbia, S. C., October 8 .- (Special.)-For the second time Governor Tillman's liquor law came out of the hands of the supreme court this evening, on this occasion completely rehabilitated. "The city council of Aiken against Holly and George" was the title of the case in which Justices Pope and Gary, Tillmanites sustain the dispensary, reversing the decison pronouncing it unconstitutional delivered by the court last April, when Samuel McGowan, anti-Tillmanite, was a member. McIver, adhering to his previous opinion,

It will be remembered that the April decision was upon an act passed in 1892. On August 1st Gary, elected over McGowan last December, succeeded him and a week previous Governor Tillman proclaimed in force the act of 1893, which he had suspend-

Since the proclamation the dispensaries have been running on full time and constables have been selzing contraband spirits. When the dispensary at Alken was reopened the city council at once arrested George, the dispenser, and Holly, a member of the county board of control, for violation of a city ordinance against the sale of liquor. The state carried the case before Circuit Judge Aldrich, who sustained the city council, and then the state appealed to the supreme court. A special session of the latter was immediately convened.

What Justice Gary Says. In deciding the law constitutional Justice Gary says that the law is a police measure and that the state, under its police power can itself assume entire control and management of subjects that are dangerous to the peace, good order, etc., of the people, even when trade is one of the incidents of such control, and that liquur is such a subject. He quotes authorities to show that the saloon keeper does not sell liquor by reason of an inalienable right, but because such power has been delegated to him by the government, and reasons from this that it would be an anomaly in the law to hold that the principal could delegate to an agent a greater power than the principal himself could exercise. The justice holds that "the dispensary act itself is an outgrowth of the dissatisfacmanner in which the police power when delegated was abused."

holds that its primary object is not the raising of revenue and that it is within the power of the board of control to eliminate the profit feature altogether. Such question, however, he declares, is not before the court.

As to the objection that the act is repugnant to the provisions of the constitution as to taxation, he says that could only be sustained in case the object of the act is not the exercise of police power. The justice says that the objection as to the onstitutionality of the act, on the ground that it creates a monopoly, is ful-ly met by the decision in the ly met by the decision the slaughter house cases, wherein the court declares that the legislature has the right to create a corporation when a cer-tain result can best be attained by means thereof. He holds that the act does not violate section 1, article 1, of the state constitution as it does not deprive the respondent of an "inalienable right.' The justice says that the objection to the law, in that it embarks the state in a commer cial enterprise, does not nold good as lorg as the buying and selling are in presuance of police regulations. Concerning the objection that the law vio-lates section 8, of the United States (crailtution, and also the Wilson bill, Justice

Gary says:
"The intention of congress was to de prive liquor of its national character as a subject of commerce, make it local in its nature and subject it to the police power of the state until congress should see fit to legislate upon it. It was the intention of congress to subordinate the commercial power of the national government to the police power of the state on the subject of Chief Justice McIver Differs.

Chief Justice McIver on dissenting de-clares that the dispensary not rests upon the same principles as the old act which was declared unconstitutional. Also he re-fers to "the well settled and wholesome doctrine of stare decisis and the vill of not adhering to the former a-cision of the court. He declares that until it is shown—which never can be—that trade is one of the appropriate functions of civil govern-ment, and statutes purporting to embark the state in any trading enterprise is al together beyond the competency of the legislature, because it excludes the limitations upon the legislative power necessarily im-plied from the express terms used in the constitution. The chief fustice declares it constitution. The thiof fustice declares it a very dangerous doctrine, asserted in the former case, and again insisted in this case "that the police power of the state is limited only by the will of the legulature." He then takes up the argument, which, it will be remembered, was made from the bench last Monday by Circuit Judge Benet in this city in his charse to the jury, that in this city in his charge to the jury, that the courts have no right to inquire whether acts of the legislature or police regula-

"I can't subscribe to any such doctrine," "I can't subscribe to any such doctrine," says the chief justice, "for it would subject the rights of the citizen secured to him by constitutional provisions to the unrestrained will of the legislature, and would render absolutely useless all the safeguards provided in the constitution for the protection of his rights against invasion by the law-abiding power of the government."

Justice McIver holds that the dispensary act is not a legitimate exercise of the police power, as this power cannot be so extended as to authorize the state to engage in a traffic forbidden to a citizen. Concerning the argument that when a state issues license to a saloon keeper it delegates to him the exercise of the police delegates to him the exercise of the police power, he says:

"I do most emphatically deny the power of the legislature to delegate any portion of its legislative power—police power or otherwise—to a private citizen, and, so far as I am informed, neither this state nor any other has ever undertaken to do so."

The juctice says that the provision allowing the state to sell liquor outside of its—limits "shows very clearly that the whole scope and intent of this legislation is to enable the state to monopolize the liquor traffic, to the entire exclusion of the citizen, with a view to the profit of such traffic." He says that the dispensary legislation is neither the regulation of the traffic nor a prohibition of the same, but, on the contrary, is a scheme by which the state proposes to monopolize such traffic to the entire exclusion of the citizen, and to force every consumer who may desire to obtain spirituous liquors for any purpose to purchase the same from the state authorities at such a profit to the state as may be fixed by the designated state authorities, and, hence, such legislation cannot be regarded as a legitimate exercise of the police power, and any legislation which, like the dispensary law, undertakes to embark the state on trade, is without

Fall River, Mass., October 8 .- There has been a flurry along Brokers' Row since early this forenoon, when it became known that the mill men who hold the key to the resent situation, were engaged in discus ion. The excitement was increased about 2 o'clock when it was noised about that ecretary Howard, of the Spinners' union, was engaged in an earnest talk with Hon. Frank S. It was oon generally reported that Mayor Coughlin had written a letter to Secretary Rounseville, of the Manufacturers' Association calling attention to the destitution in the city, and asking the members of the association to endeavor to open the mills on some terms, and offer opportunities for work to the idle operatives.

Then the manufacturers got together in the association rooms and held a long conference. A group of mill men said that the neeting had considered the proposition that the operatives return to work for sixty days under the reduced schedule, the old schedu to be restored later, if business conditions warranted. The men who were in concultation said that they were not empowered to make any direct proposition to opera tives, therefore, they did not care to make

A DOOR IN COURT.

Brought in to Show Where Hardin Rid the Stolen Money.

HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW TELLS THE STORY

She Knew Hardin Changed His Name Frequently.

CLINCHING EVIDENCE AGAINST HIM

Proving That He Is One of the Man Who cobbed the Express—The Hole in the Bottom of the Door.

Nashville, Tenn., October 8.-(Special.)-The prosecution in the express robbery case furnished another sensation today when Harbin's mother-in-law, Mrs. Minerva J. Brauen, testified that she had known Hardin under two other names; that he had given her large amounts of money about the time of the express robbery and hidden part of it in a mortise cut by him in the bottom of a door. The door itself was produced in court and identified.

Mrs. Brauen told her story in a straightforward manner. She first knew Hardin as Ketchum, thirteen years ago, in Kansas City. He and her daughter had lived to gether from that time until his arrest. She first heard that Ketchum's name was Hardin bery he came in late and said he had been to Elrod's gallery. He gave her $3,000, and on his advice she and her daughter left for Louisville the next night. She bought a home at Moreland with $1,450 of the money. She made a trip to Louisville again, met Hardin and Elrod in the latter's gallery and was given more money in a canvas bag, which she took to Moreland.

Was Known as Leslie When Hardin came to Moreland he assumed the name of Charles E. Leslie. He ook the door on its hinges, made a hole in the bottom, hid the money, and hung the door again. She identified the door. Hardin drank heavily at Moreland and he and Elrod exchanged visits. When they left Moreland, Hardin said detectives were after him. He met Mrs. Taylor in Elrod's galbut she did not know what it was for at the time. Elrod had passed as Hardin's brother

Sam Haigh, of Moreland, is trustee of Clcero county, knew Hardin as Charley E. Leslie; met him there with Elrod. Leslie offered to pay for a railroad switch so he could start a coal yard; said Elrod wanted to put up a planing mill. Leslie stoke of his brother. He furnished the Leslies gro-ceries and they paid cash. In June a Pinkerton detective asked him to take a door at the house where Lealie had lived, off the bottom. He identified the door which he had shipped to Nashville.

W. H. Hagerman now lived in the Moreland house once occupied by Leslie and also identified the door. He had seen the hole W. H. Force, a Pinkerton detective of Chi-examination of the door and he found the eck of the year on the | that Leslie told him he had a brothe ness and that they had made $20,000 out of it the year before. Sam Badgely, of Louisville, identified papers heretofore placed in evidence as in Elrod's hand writing. Court then adjourned until tomorrow

The Orioles Played Well, but the New orkers Best Them - Racing at Mor-ris Park and Lexington;

New York, October 8,-The series of between the Baltimores, National League champions, and the New Yorkers, who finished second in the league race for the Temple cup, were concluded today. The New Yorks defeated the Orl. oles for the fourth consecutive time, thus winning the cup and 65 per cent of the net eccipts of the four games. The net receints amounts to about $22,000 and each one of the players will, therefore, receive a very snug sum for their great work in the series just closed. The New Yorks have utplayed the Baltimores at all points in the series and have well deserved their victory and the spoils which go with it.

The champion Baltimores were never in the game at the Polo grounds this afternoon and were badly thrashed. Eleven thousand persons were present and went wild with delight. Meekin pitched a magnificent game from start to finish, and but for errors by Fuller and Mavis, the chamons would have been shut out. Hawke began pitching for Baltimore, but after four innings, in which he was pounded hard, he gave way to Kid Gleason, who was very easy to find. In all Ward's men rolled up

In the sixth inning, Van Haltren and Jennings collided at the second base; Van's nose was badly bruised and Jennings was cut over the left eye. They had to give way to Murphy and Bonner, respectively, while physicians dressed their wounds.

The Baltimore's scored two runs in the first inning on Kelly's base on balls. Fuller's fumble of Keeler's grounder, Brouthes's out and McGraw's single. Bourke scored a run for New York on his base on balls, Hawkes's error and a wild pitch.

In the third the visitors got another run on Davis's two errors, Brodle's out and Reitz's single. The New Yorks also made a run on hits of Meekin, Tiernan and Doyle. After the champions had blanked in the fourth, Ward's men rolled up three runs and took the lead. Van Haltron, Fuliar, Farrel and Meekin made singles, Burke sent a long fly to Brodie and Fullar and Farrell worked a double steal. Gleason took Hawkes's place in the fifth inning and the New Yorks clinched the rune. Pavis got a base on balls, and took second on a wild pitch. He scored on Doyle's double, but Ward forced Doyle at third. Van Haltren ot four balls, and Fullar's single scored both Fullar and Farrell counted cut Meekin's bases to center. In the sixin, Doyle made another run on his single and sical, an error by Medraw, and Ward's cut. The home team put up five more runs in the seventh. With one out, Farrell singled and Meckin filed to Brod's. Eurice made a hit, ending Farrell to third and stealing second himself. Tiern n got a base on balls and Davis received another, farcing in Far-Doyle put 3 single in center, bringing in both Burke and Tiernan. Ward's hit scored Davis, and Doyle ran in, too, on Mc-Graw's failure to stop Brodle's 'hrow to third. In the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth innings, the visitors were help est before Meekin, and when the New Yorks had been retired in their half of the eighth, the game was called an account of darkness. Van Haltren was presented with a silver bat as a result of a voting contest in a New York paper for the most popular player in either the New York or Brooklyn teams.

Lexington, Ky., October 8.—The famous Transylvania stake caused a tremendous crowd to attend the trotting races here this afternoon. The sport was exceptionally good. the Transylvania being the fastest trotting race ever decided over this track. Ralp Wilkes (2:091/2) who cost J. E. Thayer & Bro., of Boston, $30,000 as a two-year-old, was the favorite at $60 over the celd at $50. He burned up his backers' money by acting very badly at the start and breaking. At the first turn he reared up and fell to his knees. Before Golden could steady him the others had so much the best of it that he was distanced, Asote ing the heat with ease by two lengths. In the second heat everybody drove for Asote came home a winner without one half by Dancupid, Dandy Jim, Treand Alar, but McDowell pulled around the others and Asoet came home a winner without one lick of punishment. In the third heat Asote won all the way, finishing in a jog by three lengths. RUSSELL NOMINATED

As Democratic Candidate for Massa chusetts' Governorship. chusetts' Governorship.

Boston, Mass., October 8.—The democratic state convention was held in Music hall today for the nomination of candidates for governor and state officers. Eleven o'clock was the hour named for the opening, and during the previous half hour the hall resounded with martial strains of a brass band, stationed in the rear balciny. There was no apportionment of seats, and the delegates sat wherever it pleased them, regardless of county lines. The iecorations were confined to the platform, which was hung with the national colors, and on the wall was a large picture with a fountain in its center, while upon one side were the state coat of arms and upon the other the seal of the city.

It was not until 11:30 o'clock that the convention was called to order by Hon. John W. Corcoran, chairman of the demo-cratic state committee. The floor and lower balcony were now filled with a scattering attendance in the upper gallery, while the platform space was occupied by nembers of the state committee and prom-

Nathaniel G. Robinson, the secretary, read the call, and Corcoran and Robinson were made the temporary officers of the convention. The usual committees were then appointed. The committee on cre-dentials reported the presence of 1,850 dele-gates from 200 towns and thiry cities.

The committee on permanent organization made a report, naming ex-Governor William E. Russell as chairman, and Daniel E. Buckle, of North Easton, and Nathaniel G. Robinson, of Boston, as secretaries. The ex-governor was introduced by Judge Corcoran briefly but happly, and Mr. Russell received an old-time democratic welcome. He then proceeded to deliver his address, which was frquently applauded.

After the platform had been read and adopted, nominations were declared in order, and George Fred Williams nominated the Hon. John E. Russell, of Leicester, for the Hon. John E. Russell, of Lecester, 12, governor.

The nomination was seconded by Hon. John J. Donovan, of Lowell, and Mr. Russell was then unanimously nominated by acclamation.

John C. Crosby, of Pittsfield, placed in nomination for lieutenant governor, Charles E. Stratton, of Boston, and moved that he be nominated by acclamation, which was done.

On motion of Hon. Jones W. McDonald, of Mariborough, a committee was appointed to wait upon the candidate for governor, and Mr. Russell soon appeared. He received a glorious greeting, the convention rising en masse and cheering and clapping their hands in wild delight. Mr. Russell's speech was applauded vociferously from start to finish, and at its close there were cheers upon cheers.

A. B. Bruce, of Lawrence, then announced the following named as having been agreed upon as nominees for the other offices on the state ticket and they, therefore, were severally nominated by acclamation.

For secretary of the commonwealth, Charles A. Decourcey, of Lawrence.

For treasurer and receiver general, James S. Grinnell, of Greensfield.

For attorney general, Henry F. Huriburt, of Lynn. For auditor, Alfred C. Whitney, of Bos-

The Platform Adopted.

The platform is as follows:
The democrats of Massachusetts, in convention assembled, renew their allegiance to the time-honored principles of Jamesonian democracy; and they reiterate neir loyalty to the president and other party leaders which have so courageously battled for the people against the errors and injunities or the last republican administration.

"We congratulate the country upon the

"We congratulate the country upon the repeal of an odious and tyrannical election law; on the repeal of a measure of gilver inrepeal of an odious and tyrannical election law; on the repeal of a measure of silver innation which was the direct cause of the financial panic, from the consequences of which we are now happily recovering; on the repeal of the Mckinley tariff; on the abolition of bounties; on the firm, dignified and conservative conduct of our toreign affairs; on the vigorous and timely measures taken to repress attacks upon the rights and property of the federal government; on the reform of abuses in the pension system; on a reduction of many milions in the appropriations of congress and on the economies and improvements effected in the various administrative branches of the government. We have advocated for years a thorough reform of the tariff. The house or Witson bill was an honest effort to carry out the democratic policy. Its defeat is much to be regretted. We nold those democratic senators, who, by their inaction or resistance, prevented its passage, to be traitors to their party and we demand their retirement from party leadership. We also demand that United States senators be elected by direct vote of the people. We recognize, however, that the new tariff is, in spite of imperfections, a great improvement in almost every schedule over the monstrous act of spoilation known as the McKinley tariff, and we hall its passage as the beginning of the end of an unconstitutional system of duties for protection only.

"We believe it to be the immediate duty of the democratic party to place every commodity, which can fairly be described as raw material, on the free list, to abo'tsh all duties which tend to create and maintain monopolies and trusts and to reduce all duties which are still prohibitory in effect.

"We hold that the currency troubles which during the last twenty-five years have brought industrial stress upon this country are evils for which the republican party is directly responsible. In 1870, a republican president, with the assistance of a republican congress, packed the United States supreme court to reverse the decision that the making of greenbacks a legal tender was unconstitutional, and thus opened the way for unlimited inflation. One of the results of the false ideas thus inculcated was the Eland-Allison act of 1878, which compelled the purchase of silver bullion to the amount of $2,000,000 a month. The evil done by this law was greatly increased in 1890, when, in pursuance of a recommendation of a republican secretary of the treasury, a republican congress passed and a republican president signed the Sherman act, compelling the purchase of silver bullion to the amount of 4,500,000 ounces per month. These various measures have all been in direct violation of the constitutional functions of the government, according to the historic principles of the democratic party. On the other hand, the only financial measure during this generation for which, as a party in power, the democratic party is responsible, has been the repeal of the Sherman act as the first step toward a healthier financial condition.

"We reaffirm our allegiance to the great financial condition."

has been the repeal of the Sherman act as the first step toward a healthier financial condition.

"We reaffirm our allegiance to the great financial principles which guided Jefferson, Jackson and Secretary Walker—that it is the sole function of the federal government in monetary matters to provide a standard of value and to coin metallic money, every dollar of which shall be of equal intrinsic value, that nothing but this coined money snall be a legal tender; and that the government shall not carry on a banking business. We demand that the untaxed notes of state or national banks shall be the only paper money, and that the government shall, with the development of a banking system adequate to the demands of trade, retire as rapidly as possible all its legal tender paper money.

"We approve the principle of the income tax as a return to correct theories of taxation.

"The score on the national civil service.

ax as a return to correct theories of taxation.

"The score on the national civil service system should be extended as fast as the civil service commission deems practicable, to the end that all federal positions to which the merit system of appointment is applicable may be placed by law upon a strictly non-political basis. The administration should now formulate and recommend some plan by which postofices may be brought within the merit system and the continued tenure of faithful officials be secured:

continued tenure of faithful officials be secured:

"We are not only opposed in the abstract to any 'distinction of birth or religious creed in the rights of American citizenship,' but to any organization which aims to introduce any such distinction into politics, and we hold up to public condemnation any party which, like the republican party in this and other states, tacticly accepts an alliance with such an organization and permits it to control the party caucuses and conventions.

The present method of election of members of legislative bodies does not secure to a minority the representation which fairly belongs to it. We therefore recommend to the attention of the legislature a system of proportionate representation, to the end that the several political parties mend to the attention of the legislature a system of proportionate representation, to have an in the end that the several political parties may be represented in legislative assemblies by neither more nor less than the number of members to which their voting strength justly entities them.

Some system or machine to make the process of voting quicker and the counting more accurate should also be adopted.

"Upon the foregoing declaration of political and economic principles we commend out."

Limit cal and economic principles we commend to the andidates whom we have this day put in nemination to the suffrages of the paople."

WHAT MYERS HAS SAID. His Own Story Practically Precludes

the Brown Allen Feature. The stories that have been affoat during discovery of the now thoroughly notorious Brown Allen have been credited by many, but those who remember the statement of young Will Myers take no stock in them. According to Myers's own story, the tale that a Consolidated Street Car Company motorman and conductor saw this Brown Allen is not to be credited, even if were not many qualifications. Both the conductor and motorman of the car state it is possible that the man who drove away was Myers.

Buy Myers himself makes this impossible. On the Sunday of Myers's arrival in the city, three Constitution reporters called upon him and he was questioned regarding his actions after the murder, and where he drove and how. This conversation, as remembered by all three, was as follows: "After you left the scene of the murder with Brown Allen in the buggy, did you ome out the same way?"

"I drove straight out," replied Myers, and kept right down the road and out Gordon avenue, the way I came." "Do you mean that you came out of Westwood park, drove to the car line with Brown Allen and then drove right. on, without turning round, and drove into Gordon avenue?" "You don't seem to understand." said

"Did you drive twice past the lake and then around back to Stokes's residence, and come out where the street car line crosses Greensferry road?"

"Yes, that's it," answered Myers. "I lrove around the lake again and came out to the road where the car track crosses stopped there and let Brown Allen out and drove on to town. You know how it is, so you see I didn't have to turn around." Myers Says No Car Was Near.

"Do you remember what the motorman of conductor on the car was like?" "There wasn't any car there," replied

Myers.
'Did you wait until one came?" "Then you didn't drive down to Westview cemetery where the cars stop?' "No, only to where it crosses, just above "Did you see which way Brown Allen "No," was Myers's answer, "I was excited, and just drove on without looking

"Are you sure that you didn't turn around "Yes," reiterated Myers; "you don't seem to understand yet."

"But your buggy tracks, coming from the direction of the little bridge, turned towards the Greensferry road entrance. You remember the bridge, don't you? There was a hole in it. It looked fresh, and might have been made by your horse."
"No." said Myers. "my horse didn't make."

"No," said Myers, "my horse didn't make it. I saw it, however. I drove around the lake. You ought to know the road, but you don't seem to understand just what I mean."

Events of the Future-Gossip Abou Social Events and Matters Pertaining Thereto.

Cards have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Wright announcing the approaching wedding of their daughter, Miss Jeannie Wright, and Mr. Frank Weldon, of Atlanta. The ceremony will take place at "The Cedars," the home of the bride, at Covington, at 10 o'clock on the morning of October 17th. Miss Wright is one of the most charming and accomplished young ladies of Covington. Mr. Weldon is well known in Atlanta, where his work on The Constitution has brought him into prominence as one of the rising young journalists of the south. His many friends throughout the state will congratulate him on his appreaching wedding.

Last evening at 6 o'clock, at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Miss Lillie Theresa Williams was united in marriage with Mr. Frank Bertram Jordan, of Nev York. The church was tastefully dec in palms and exquisite roses, and the bride looked enchantingly lovely in white moire antique. Rare old lace was gracefully draped about the bodice and skirt A mganificent diamond pendant was the gift of the groom. The ceremony was very gracefully performed by the Rev. Benjamin Keilly. The bridesmaids were Mis-Joe Knott, Miss Eva Bell, Miss Jordan and Miss Annie Flynn, Mrs. Raphael Semmes was was the attendant of honor, and Miss Mary Fitzpatrick made a dainty little flower girl. The bridesmaids carried bride

Mr. Charles O'Neil, of New York, was the best man, and Captain J. H. Fitzpatrick, uncle of the bride, gave her away.

After the wedding the guests adjourned to the Normandie, where delicious refresh ments were served. The decorations at the house were palms, ferns and American beauty roses. There were more than one hundred magnificent presents received by this popula young couple. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan left at 9 o'clock on their way to Washington, Old Point Com-fort and other northern resorts, and will be at home after November 1st, at 58

West Eighty-eighth street, New York. On the morning of the 16th instant at Grantville, Ga., will occur the marriage of Miss Jessie Zellars to Mr. William A. Ward. Miss Zellars is a young lady of many accomplishments, and is the daughter of Mr. Charles E. Zellars, of the old firm of Garrett & Zellars, of Grantville. Her grandfather was the late and lamen.el Thomas C. Moreland, one of the most prom-inent men in that portion of the state. Mr. Ward is a member of the well-known firm of John Silvey & Co., of Atlanta, and stands foremost among the young commercial men of the south. They go east immediately after the marriage.

Miss Rease Cunningham has returned to her home in Griffin, after a most delightful visit spent with her friend, Miss Annie Gaines. She won many friends in the Gate City who will regret her departure.

One of the most conspicuously beautiful gowns that has ever been worn in Atlanta was graced by the exquisite face and figure of Mrs. Joseph Thompson at the reception given to the Hon. Hoke Smith at the Capital City Club, on Thursday evening. It was a Reilly creation, from London. The skirt fell in rich folds of corn colored satin embroidered in gold spangles, fern leaf pattern, the bodice being gold embroidered black chiffon, over corn-colored satin, and the high puffed sleeves were also gold em-

"The Country Squire" company, which appeared at the Grand last night, has among its members a young lady who is a great-granddaughter of Rev. Abiel Carter, one of the early rectors of Christ's parish, Savannah. She is Miss Helen Richmend, a very pretty, winsome and cultivated young lady. Her stage name is Helen Ridgeway. In the old cemetery on South Broad street, Savannah there is a handsome tablet to the memory of Rev. Abiel Carter, who died in 1827, during a yelow fever epidemic. Miss Richmend has marked dramatic talents, which, reinforced by earnestness of purpose and conscientiousness of performance, is bound to obtain distinction.

POSTPONED THE NOMINATION.

Decision of the Citizens' Club of Savannah.

Savannah, Ga., October 8.—(Special.)—The Citizens' Club tonight decided to postpone the nomination of a candidate for mayor until Monday night, December 3d. The motion to postpone was opposed by the heretofore redoubtable Jimmy McBride, of the fourth, and his so-called "400," which dwindled to seventy-six when the count was taken. The vote was announced and he and followers started to bolt the meeting, but were finally induced to come back and remain to the close. A conservative member said tonight that Major John Schwarz would not get a third of the votes of the club when it came to the question of a nomination. Another member remarked, as he was leaving the hall, that it was Herman Meyers and he believed his friends had held a caucus before hand. The situation is getting interesting.

Oil Comes Through Rocks on the Banks of Broad River, and They Are Going to Bore a Well.

Augusta, Ga., October 8.-(Special.)-Colonel D. B. Dyer and Major George T. Barnes arrived in the city tonight from Wilkes county, where they have been on a prospecting tour that possibly means the opening up of a new industry in this section. For some time past these gentlemen have been in communication with par-ties in Wilkes-regarding the flow of petro-leum that has been discovered on Broad river in that county. The object of the trip was to investigate this spring and Colonel Dyer brought back specimens of oil which he will have examined by Dr. Bachof the members and rather than have any contention he decided to resign.

The term of Dr. Taylor's service as pastor of this church has been marked with a wonderful success. The whole church debt. has been paid off and among other good things the church has appointed a missionary of its own to China.

An interesting part of the discussion that man, of the chemical works. Oil percolates slowly from pores of large white rock and is of a slate color which can easily be reined and brightened.

An Augusta syndicate has already secured an option on the land and final purchase depends on the analysis of Dr. Bachman and further prospecting in the shape of a well that will be bored within the next month. On the same tract of land is also a splendid natural water power which could easily be used for turning machinery of an oil mill.

Before the Recorder Again. For the third time in the past three months Mr. C. J. Rooney, ex-member of council, was before the recorder this morning for selling liquor without a city license. Detectives Howard and Murray went to Mr. Rooney's place out on Campbell street last night just after dark land fo rurning in full blast. Murray walked into the bar, where there were twenty negroes congregated. When charged with violation this morning, Mr. Rooney offered no de-fense. Judge Barrett informed him that this was the third time in a few months that a like charge had been preferred against him; that he must obey the law like other people; that the next time of-fense was proved against him the punishment would be either confinement in jail or work on the chaingang. The judge said over for trial under the state law. The fine imposed was $150, which sum Mr. Roo-ney put up at the barracks last night to secure his release.

He Addresses a Large Crowd at the Courthouse.

Ellijay, Ga., October 8 .- (Special.)-At the noon recess of Gilmer superior court today, Hon. Carter Tate addressed a crowded courthouse of voters. Mr. Tate made vote-winning speech, showing clearly that the last congress had done more for the relief of the people than any congress for years. He also clearly demonstrated that if all the measures introduced in congress made by the directors that unless the pub-lic rallied to the support of the library they would be forced to close the doors. Finally the idea was advanced that the board of education could take the library and make it more valuable as a factor in their work as well as securing a better patby the populists had been enacted into laws it would have cost this government more money than is now in existence. Gilmer county's majority for Atkinson was 235. Mr. Tate's majority will be much larger, from the fact that a majority of both democrats and republicans in Gilmer county are opposed to the wild revolutionary schemes of the people's party, and, also, because Mr. Tate is very popular in this courty.

Accordingly, the most intelligent and progressive people the most intelligent and progressive people are found to employ the most refined and perfect laxative to regulate and tone up the stomach, liver, and bowels, when in need of such an agent—hence the great popularity of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. These are made from the purest, most refined and concentrated vegetable extracts, and from forty-two to forty-four are contained in each vial, which is sold at the same price as the cheaper made and more ordinary pills found in the market. In curative virtues, there is no comparison to be made between them and the ordinary pills, as any one may easily learn by sending for a free sample, (four to seven doses) of the Pellets, which will be sent on receipt of name and address on a postal card.

A Young Man's Life Taken by a Strange Negroin Madison County-The Mur-derer Will Be Lynched if Caught

Athens, Ga., October 8 .- (Special.)-There was a foul murder committed in Madison county last night and if the murderer is saught there will be a lynching.

About 10 o'clock last night Mr. Frank Ashworth, a young man eighteen years old, was going to his home at Medicus, near Comer. A few minutes before the murder he was met by a young man named Snellngs. Snellings noticed a strange negro following Ashworth, but paid no particular attention to him. Snellings passed on and soon heard Ashworth say to the negros "Put down that rock; I didn't mean any harm by asking you what your name was."

Snellings went on home and heard nothing more of the conversation. Soon after the murder Dock Smith, negro, came by and found the body with two bullets in the head and an ugly gash made with a rock across the forehead.

Young Ashworth had a pistol with two chambers loaded when he left town. It was found with both barrels empty. It was supposed the negro took it away from him and shot him. On the shoulder of the dead man was found the print of a shoe where the murdered had stamped his lifeless vic-

Ashworth was a young man of temperate habits and very popular. Great indignation exists and if the murderer is caught there will be a lynching.

Incendiarism in Elbert.

Elberton, Ga., October 8 .- (Special.)-The gin, ginhouse, cotton press and machinery of Mr. T. J. Warren, Jr., and about thirty bales of cotton belonging to Mr. Warren's customers were totally destroyed by fire Saturday night about seven miles from Elberton. It was the work of an incendiary. George Crawford, a young white man, was arrested and placed in jail by Sheriff Joseph I. Chandler last night, charged with the crime. Crawford had a preliminary trial yesterday before Justice Bud Bund, who committed him to jail to await investigation by the next grand jury. The testimony so far is all though very strong against Crawford.

Thrown from a Buggy. Adairsville, Ga., October 8.—(Special.)— Misses Jessie Combs, Lily Davis and Berta Fulton were out driving Sunday afternoon, when the bolt that attaches the shafts to the buggy came out and allowed the shafts to drop down, the momentum of which caused it to run off in a fill, and the young ladies were thrown violently to the ground. They were all painfully injured, but not seriously. They are the leaders of society here, and their many friends wish for them a speedy recovery.

Adairsville, Ga., October 8.—(Special.)—A fatal accident occurred near here last week. A Mr. Jink Young, while riding a vehicle, let his team get away from him, and he was thrown out and dragged for some distance in some way by the horse The wounds that proved fatal were inflicted on his head. He had lived here for a long while, and was about seventy years old. He was buried today.

Says His Wife Committed Murder. Savannah, Ga., October 8.—(Special.)—Holland, a colored blind accordion player, reported to the police today that his wife had made a statement to him to the effect that she had killed a man, named Alf Thomas, at Cusseta, Ala., twelve years ago in a fight over a dollar. The woman was named Cora Meadows before he married her. On this statement the woman was arrested and will be held for an investiga-tion into the facts of the case. He said the woman told him she had committed the murder, but the authorities had never been able to find out who had done it.

Will Be Resentenced. Savannah, Ga., October 8 .- (Special.) -- The supreme court has affirmed the decision of the lower court in the case of Edd'e Davis, charged with the murder of Willis Brown charged with the murder of Willis Brown last January, who was sentenced to be hanged. Davis was to have been hanged in July, but the case was appealed. He will be resentenced when the court opens in December. The murderer, for no apparent cause, shot the victim down with the gun with which Brown had just started out for a hunt.

Thinks the Effect Will Be Far Renching. Calhoun, Ga., October 6, 1894—Editor Constitution: To the limited understanding of us country folk—rustic democrats—it is amusing to read the many and diverse excuses being framed for fallure to reach a democratic majority of 75,000 in the late election.

The people are becoming to think about politics and parties as they think of mat-ters of business. As in their various and several pursuits or vocations, they think and act upon their own judgment. They are coming to the conclusion that there is no excuse for a lack of some kind of sanity n politics, and feel impelled to resent the effort to subject them to the will and dominion of inferior men. In a word, the dominion or interior men. In a word, the people are beginning to have in politics, as in almost everything else, some thoughts and ideas of their own, and do not propose longer to be the mere tools or puppets of men who "think they are thinking." They know, or are about to learn, that party nominations cannot make angels of poor. nominations cannot make angels of poor weak, mortal men and are resolved to no longer be led to destruction, simply to avoid being called traitors by machine politicians. They have resolved to hold the party to a strict responsibility instead of being held to a strict responsibility by the party. This independence does not mean or imply an abandonment of principle or the adoption of populistic vagaries, but it is a very emphatic notice to the democratic party that it must do right or be heaten. The people are ic notice to the democratic party that it must do right or be beaten. The people are beginning to believe in a limited party allegiance, and the sentiment is growing to the benefit of parties and the bringing of politics to the level of honesty.

Partles, like individuals, have diseases, the diagnoses of which are as distinct as those which waste physical organizations. As in the latter, to heal it, it is necessary to resort to the knife or other heroic remedies; so in the former sometimes cure can only be effected by resort to the club. The small majority in last Wednesday's election is but the result of the application of this heroic remedy, and its farreaching effect for good will be fully realized in the future.

A raging storm is headed north from the gulf and will strike Atlanta probably today in storm form. It may be that it will be a heavy rainstorm or as terrible Already all communication with Pensaco a, Fla., has been cut off and ships at Savannah have been warned not to leave for the south. In south Georgia cotton is suffering from the driving rain and much damage has already been done. Great fear is expressed by the weather bureau people that there is much danger

It appears to be characterized by greater violence than its predecessor and s taking a more inland route. If the force back of it continues, it will break against the chain of the Blue Ridge mountains and spread destruction and death over the entire region. The heavy rains which began to pour last Sunday evening, and which have since continued without interruption, announce the coming of the storm. It will reach this neighborhood in twenty-four hours if the force that is moving it along is not sooner

The weather man shook his head rather lolefully yesterday afternoon.

"It seems to be moving this way," said he, "and I fear, from the present indications, that we are going to have a little shake-up. The last storm followed the shore line as far as Tampa, Fla., and then darted across the country, but the present storm appears to have started further out coast and to be on its progress towards the Atlantic ocean, taking an inland sweep over the entire southeastern portion of the country.

This tells the story in a few words. The torm is on its way to Atlanta and there seems to be little doubt as to the probability of its arrival,

The storm king evidently considers his last trip a failure and is seeking to make amends for it by taking in a part of the same territory. It is a grim and ghastly humor he is in to thus make sport of human life and scatter the wrecks of bridges, houses, buildings and fences, a prey to the winds in such a wanton and reckless manner. It is hoped the force of the hurricane will be stayed before it reaches this point and that Atlanta will be spared such a frightful visitation as the one which has already spread its pall over the lower section of the country and played such fearful havoc with life and property.

The following telegram brought the first intimation of the storm yesterday morn-

'Washington, October 8.-Observer, Atlanta: Tropical hurricane approaching cen-tral gulf coast, likely to pass over east gulf and south Atlantic states, attended by heavy rains and high winds. Notify post-HERRINGTON. Observer Morrill, after receiving the above, notified 215 postmasters in Georgia and Alabama, who are provided by the bureau with storm signals.

There were no developments in the situation reported at a late hour last night.

WEATHER FORECAST RND SYNOPSIS

The tropical hurricane, which as early as Sunday evening was reporter by the weather bureau as central in the gulf, was last evening central on the middle gulf coast near Mobile, and as a result high winds prevailed in that vicinity, while heavy rains were general throughout the gulf and south Atlantic districts. At 7 o'clock the wind was blowing a gale of thirty-two miles per hour at New Orieans and thirty at Mobile, while Tampa and several other points in while Tampa and several other points in the southeast reported velocities of from eighteen to twenty-four miles per hour. Dur-ing the day Montgomery and Mobile, Ala., each had nearly two inches of rainfall, Tam-pa, Fla., one and a half inches and Atlanta nearly one inch.

For Georgia today: Threatening weather and rain; continued cool.

Wind and Rain Doing Damage to Crops in Georgia. Albany, Ga., October 8 .- (Special.)-A terrific wind and rain storm, which has been preparing all day and partaking of the nature of an equinoctial storm, is sweepng over this section tonight at this hour, doing thousands of dollars damage to the cotton crop.

· Cyclone at Pensacola. Jacksonville, Fla., October 8.—The cyclone reported raging in the gulf near Galveston, Tex., last night, has reached Florida. It struck Pensacola this morning. At noon the wind at Pensacola was reported to be blowing at a velocity of sixty-four miles an ho, r. Shortly after that the wirea went down between this place and Pensacola, and it is impossible to learn whether any damage has been done.

The storm seems to be traveling in a northeasteriy direction from Pensacola. Tallahassee, Fla., reported early in the night that there were indications of a heavy gale, and that much apprehens'on was felt. At Jacksonville tonight the barometer has fallen to 20.50 and the wind has reached a velocity of thirty-six miles an hour. as raisen to 20.20 and the wind has reached a velocity of thirty-six miles an hour. It is thought, however, that the storm will pass north of Jacksonville.

Nothing can be learned as to the damage done by the cyclone until communicat on is re-established with Pensacola, as that place seems to have been in the storm's center.

Storm Signals at Savannali. rannah, Ga., October 8.-Storm signals are up here. Reports from the gulf storm indicate it is now in western Florida. Preparations have been made for the safety of shipping, and vessels have been warned against leaving port for the southward.

Speaker Crisp in the Campaign.

One of the most conspicuous figures in the recent state campaign and one that attracted the most attention was that of Speaker Crisp. Occupying one of the highest and most responsible offices within the gift of the party, Speaker Crisp returned to his home and entered heartily into the campaign in behalf of true democratic principles.

Wherever his services were needed, or wherever his presence would give timely encouragement, he went-and he always went as a democrat. The speeches that he made in the campaign were remarkable for their clearness of statement and their enthusiasm in behalf of democratic doctrine. He stood by the platform and reaffirmed on every occasion the importance of the democratic policy of restoring silver to its old place as money of final payment.

While others, pretending to be democrats, were going about the state preaching the financial doctrines of John Sherman and Wall street-doctrines that have been made odious by the results of silver demonetization-Speaker Crisp lost no opportunity to reaffirm the true democratic doctrine. Wherever his voice was heard in the campaign, he expressed his keen personal regret as a democrat that the democratic house had failed to pass a free coinage bill, and declared that democratic duty demanded the financial legislation pledged in the platform.

It was fortunate indeed that Speaker Crisp took part in the campaign. His bold utterances revived hope in the heart of many a doubting democrat, and held to the party many a vote that, otherwise, would not have been cast at all, or would have been counted for the

In Speaker Crisp's own district the democrats, encouraged by the example of their distinguished representative, rolled up a larger majority for the party than the voters of any other congressional district. It is fortunate for the democrats of the state that Speaker Crisp took part in the campaign. His vigorous presence and his invincible arguments were in the nature of a party tonic, and while it was not in the power of one individual, no matter how eloquent or distinguished, to neutralize the doubt and disgust created in the minds of thousands of voters by the apostles of Wall street and John Sherman, it is certain that the speeches made by Speaker Crisp went very far in that direction. It is certain that but for his efforts the slump in the democratic majority would have been very much

The "Anti-Lyaching Committee." Some of the leading organs of British public opinion are beginning to show signs of irritation over the display of stupid fanaticism indulged in by those Englishmen who formed themselves into a committee for the purpose of vis-Iting this country and invsetigating the charges of indiscriminate lynching, murder and assassination brought against the people of the south by a negress named Ida Wells. The London Times and The Pall Mall Gazette, especially, seem to have suddenly opened their eyes to the position in which the members of this British investigating committee have placed themselves; and ese organs of British opinion proceed to administer a solemn rebuke, couched In language as serious and as dignified as the gifted editors are able to command.

The Pall Mall Gazette goes so far as to characterize these two-for-a-nickel philanthropists at "irresponsible Engtish busy-bodies," whose mission is a piece of impertinence. The Times, on the other hand, gives ponderous expression to the fear that the committee's efforts will have "the effect of multiplying the number of negroes hanged, shot or burned, not only in Alabama, but throughout the 'south." In this way the Thunderer manages to administer a scathing rebuke to the committee, and af the same time to put on record its estimate of American civilization. We are just gay enough over here, according to The Times, to rebuke the British imbeciles who have come here to investigate matters by hanging, shooting and burning an extra

to air, or that the expre ulon of its fear is intended as a slur. It is perfectly serious. Its editor takes his cue from the political lies and inventions which have been sown broadcast over the civilized world by the republican news papers of the north and east. Some of hese lies were invented in behalf of the republican party and others for the penefit of western land syndicates; but no matter what their origin their effect has been to convince the people of Europe, capitalists and immigrants, that the south is inhabited by white savages who go about shooting and burnng negroes and others.

This is the position the south occuples before the world, and the result has been to keep out of this country an immense amount of capital and a large number of immigrants. We are not sure that the south has really lost anything by that, but northern financlers, who are more than half crazy about foreign capital, could well afford to shed a few tears over the situation. The capital would have been handled from the north and the northern news papers, by slandering the south, have robbed some of their most esteemed subscribers of large sume of money in the shape of commissions.

So far as the British anti-lynching committee is concerned, it is an affair entirely harmless. It is made up of a lot of old grannles who wanted an opportunity to bring their bath-tubs to this country. The contempt of the British newspapers is awarted on them. They will go home no wiser than they came, and their visit here only demonstrates anew the force of the old saying that all the fools are not dead yet.

Counties May Lawfully Issue Currency In Floyd county there is some discus don concerning the legality of the proposed issue of county bonds of denominations as low as $1 and $2, to be used as a local currency, and the federal treasury department has been asked for ruling on the subject.

Secretary Carlisle referred the matter to Hon. F. A. Reeve, solicitor of the treasury, and in his reply to the secretary he says:

I have the honor to acknowledge your reference to a letter addressed to the comptrol-ier of the currency by Mr. R. G. Clark, of

Mr. Clark states that the county commis sioners of Floyd county, Georgia, propose to issue a certain amount in county bonds, per cent interest, in denominations of five, ten and twenty dollars, with a view of using the same as local currency, and he inquires whether such action would conflict in any way with United States banking laws.

In response to your request for an ex-pression of my opinion I have to advise you that no statute of the United States prohibits the issue of county bonds in any nomination. A county has a right nds when not in contravention to the constitution of the state. It may be observed, however, that section 19 of the act approvel February 18, 1875 (18 Stat. 311) provides: "That every person, firm, association other than national banking associaticas, and every corporation, state bank of state banking association shall pay a tax of 10 per centum on the amount of their own notes used for corculation and paid out by them;" and 20 provides, "That every such person, firm, association, corporation, state bank, or state banking association, and also every national banking association shall pay a like tax of 10 per centum of the mount of the notes of any person, firm association other than national banking associations, or of any corporation, state bank or state banking association, or of any town, city, or municipal corporation, used for circulation and paid out by

It will be seen that the word "county" is not enumerated among the corporations. banking associations, etc., mentioned in the statute. Nor can the word "notes" b to include county bonds, and I am therealso of the opinion that the proposed issue would not be taxable under said stat-

Apparently, this opinion finally settles the question. If this be the case, any county when not prohibited by the constitution and laws of its state, may issue bonds small enough to be conveniently used as a local currency. Perhaps this settles the state bank problem. It will be an easy matter for the counties to provide the people with an ample and a safe circulating medium in the shape of bonds of small denominations, if they can do so without being liable to the 10 per cent tax which stands in the way of state banks.

It is to be hoped that all doubt will soon be cleared away and that the ruling of the federal treasury and the department of justice will stand. We do not very well see how this opinion can be reversed, unless some extraordinary methods are resorted to, but this is an age of surprises in law and politics, and there is no telling what the result will be. Lotteries in New Forms.

The Boston, New York and Philadelphia papers from time to time are filled with accounts of the crusade against the policy dealers in those cities.

It seems to be a very difficult task to suppress these lotteries, and there are other schemes which seem to be just as obnoxious to the authorities in other localities. For instance, the managers of the Milwaukee exposition sell coupons with their Saturday admission tickets which give the purchaser a chance to draw a pony, or sealskin sack or something else of value. The ministers of the city object to this practice on the ground that it educates the children in the habit of gambling and that it is practically nothing but a lottery. The managers of the exposition will be requested to give up the prize feature of their show or stand the consequences in the courts. Some people will maintain that this is not a lottery, but the rule seems to be that in all prize distributions where there is an element of uncertainty they come under the head of lotteries.

Another interesting case is attracting attention in a western state where an ex-governor has been arrested on the charge of running a lottery. He is at the head of a company which sells shares of stock at $100 each. $10 onyable in advance and $10 pen mo the shareholder will receive $500, or five times the amount he has invested. The company claims that many shareholders allow their payments to lapse, The Times has any special prejudice and the money which they have paid in is forfeited and amounts to enough to enable the company to give the paid-up shareholder five for one. The authorities see an element of uncertaint in the business, and propose to proceed against it as a lottery. In the meantime the ex-governor has been released on his own recognizance, and the company will probably suspend active operations for the present.

Perhaps it is impossible to accurately draw the line and lay down any settled rule on the subject. The element of uncertainty exists in many kinds of business, and it is hard to tell just how big it must be to turn any business into

The Refermatory Again.

With our grand juries, county officials, ministers and thousands of good neople solidly in favor of a reformatory for our juvenile offenders, there ought not to be any difficulty in establishing such an institution in Fulton county. We have called attention more than once to the successful workings of the reformatory in Richmond county, where the youthful prisoners are almost selfsupporting. We do not need an expensive institution, and it is no part of the programme to support the inmates in idleness, with a lot of high-salaried officials. A few thousand dollars will start the thing, and provide a place in which our child criminals can be separated from old and hardened male factors, and taught useful trades under moral influences that will reform those who have any good in their natures.

When the experiment gets fairly under way it will cost our taxpayers less than it now costs them for murder, robbery and court and jail expenses caused by the neglected children who are turned into veteran criminals by our present inhuman system.

Then, it should not be forgotten that many good men and women would gladly donate money and supplies to the reformatory. Dr. Barnado's twentyeighth annual report of the operations of his homes for destitute children in England states that last year the sum of $750,000 was received in no fewer than 82,700 separate gifts. His homes are largely supported by the general public, and there is no reason why the amount appropriated by our authorities for a reformatory should not be supplemented by individual donations. If Fulton will make a beginning in this matter it will be pushed through successfully.

Mr. Allen and The Telegraph.

Mr. A. A. Allen has purchased the controlling interest in The Macon Tele graph, and hereafter the management of that paper will be in his hands.

Mr. Allen is a versatile writer and trained newspaper man. He has work ed himself up from The Telegraph's composing room, until he now becomes the proprietor of the paper. Mr. Allen is a good business man, as well as forceful writer, and no doubt under his direction The Telegraph will be made a success. At any rate he has The Constitution's best wishes and its congratulations on having secured contro of the paper.

A Chapter of New York Life. In New York and other large cities strange stories of real life come to light almost every day, surpassing in tragic interest anything to be found in fiction. The other day old Thomas Brannagan was found dead in his home in Brook lyn, and it was discovered upon investi gation that he had died of starvation. Brannigan was a rich man. He had made and saved $75,000 by peddling lemons, and there was no reason why he should not have supplied himself with every comfort. But as he accumulated wealth his miserly habits grew upon him. He owned several houses, and lived in the poorest of them all. Years ago his widowed daughter with her two children sought shelter under his roof. He worked the unfortunate woman like a slave, and forced her and her children to live on a few stale loaves of bread per week. One day Brannagan came home and found the remains of a more generous meal. This was more than he could stand. He turned his daughter and his grandchildren out of doors without a penny, in the bitter cold, and but for the kindness of neighbors they would have perished. That was years ago, and since that time the old miser has refused even to speak to his daughter. At last he is dead leaving no will behind him and his $75,000 will go to the outcasts who were driven by him into the street to starve or freeze. If the widow and her little ones did not enjoy a square meal when they heard the news of their good fortune, then they must be very different from the ordinary run of mortals.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The Richmond Dispatch: "Lee camp had done well to appoint a commit-tee to use its influence to cause the United States postoffice department to restore to attox, alias Surrender, the name of which it has been unjustly deprived. We trust that every other confederate camp and every Grand Army of the Republic post in the land will follow the example set by Lee camp. By the way, it was said by one of the speakers at the meeting of Lee camp night before last that the pat-rons of Appomattox, alias Surrender, had 'asked for the change.' There never was a greater mistake. Those people were not consulted at all, and the first thing they knew about what was going on was when they were informed that the name of the office was going to be changed, whether or no, and they were asked to suggest a new name. It is bad enough for Appomatto to be robbed of its old name, but to have t said that it requested to be robbed is to Lumpkin Independent: Who is to blame Is it not a revolt of the people against the dilly-dally methods of congress in failing to execute the pledges of the Chicago plat form of 1892? The democratic party was successful by an overwhelming majority at that time solely upon the promises em-bodied in that remarkable platform. They needed relief from the operation of perni clous laws fixed upon them by thirty years' misrule of the republican party. They restored democracy by their ballots and rusted the party with the restoration of onest, equitable, just government. Have they been deceived, and express it through their ballots? Let serious reflection answer the question. Have the principles and promises of the Chicago platform, been carried out or properly executed? Has the president been in accord and sympathy with the people and she party that elected him? Has he not obstructed, opposed and vetoed measures that congress thought proper to advocate and enact? Does not create distrust, dissatisfaction and suspice ion among the people? A Plea for Fair Elections. From The Augusta Chronicle.

This republic is a government of the people, by the people and for the people. It is therefore, of the very highest importance that whenever the popular will is sought on any question of public policy a free and full vote of duly qualified voters should be encouraged and a fair count made. The ballots of qualified voters, in every election-state, municipal, county, congressional-"falling softly as the snowflakes" should execute the freeman's will as the 'lightnings execute the will of God." It is at the ballot box the people speak. Through the agency of the ballot box the people declare their preference for against public measures, for or against men ambitious to represent them in positions of public trust. How important then that the ballot box be protected against the slightest form of irregularity. How importan that the ballot, which is the controlling influence under our form of government should be kept pure. All good citizens are not only willing but prempt to bow to the popular will when freely and fairly expressed. Our highest interests demand free elections and a fair count. LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

How to Get Fulton County Jail Bonds Editor Constitution-If the county commissioners are in earnest and want the people to vote for the issuance of county to build a jail they can secure the bonds as follows: 1. Select a suitable lot or lots and take options on them. 2. Get up plans and specifications for the jail. 3. Sui mit the plans and specifications to expert builders, and thus arrive at the total cost of the jail when completed. 4. Provide a sum of money sufficient to pay the interest nnually and to retire the bonds as the mature by setting aside the necessary amount from the regular tax money col ected each year by the county. If it is found necessary to accomplish this purpose, apply to the next legislature to pass special act so as to firmly bind each successive board of county commissioners to faithfully carry out the plan without increasing the county tax in any way for the purpose of paying the principal and est on the bonds. 5. Issue the bonds in denominations of $100, $500 and $1,000, so that persons of small means can have an opportunity to invest in them. 6. Let the years, one-third in twenty years and onethird in thirty years at a rate of interest of 41/2 or 5 per cent per annum, and bonds not to be sold below par. Now if the county commissioners will go at this question as above indicated, in a plain, straightforward manner and satisfy the people of Fulton county that the taxe will not be raised in order to pay the interest-annually- and to retire the bonds as they mature, I am fully satisfied that the people will vote for bonds enough to a good and suitable jail. Less than $10,000 taken from each year's county tax collections will be more than enough to carry out the scheme. Twenty thousand dollars could easily be taken from each year's county funds for the purpose of building a jail and no harm or detriment could possibly come to the people's interest thereby. But the county commissionrs had as well understand first as last that the people will never vote for bonds to build a jail unless under conditions similar to those above suggested. There is no good reason why the jail cannot be built. All fair minded men agree about the necessity for a new jail, and the county commissioners can get the bonds to build it when they ask the people for them in the right A. SHAW.

necessary to vote in the congressional election on the 6th of November? That is the question which the candidates want decided and in which the people are both ways. It will be remembered that two years ago on account of a question being raised by the Young Men's Democratic League, of Richmond county, Judge Emory Speer, of the United States district court, rendered an opinion in which he held that the state constitution required uniformity of laws and as the registration laws of the various counties in the tenth congressional district were not uniform the laws were, therefore, were not uniform the laws were, therefore, unconstitutional, and in consequence, registration was not a requisite of exercising the privileges of the ballot in a congressional election. Judge Speer also held that the United States election laws provided that all men should, have equal right to the ballot. That was violated by the law which required registration in Richmond and of the district; therefore, the registration

On this opinion registration was cast aside in the last congressional election in the tenth. But in other districts registration did apply.

the repeal of the federal election laws by congress at its last session some of the populist leaders in the tenth have held that under the repeal of these Judge Speer's decision was rendered that under the repeal of these laws and registration would apply.

ocratic managers of the tenth hold that Judge Speer's decision still applies, as his main reason for declaring registration unnecessary was because of the lack of uniformity of the stat laws, and as the state constitution distinctly says all laws must be uniform in the various counties, these county registration laws are unconstitutional. This opinion is held by the best lawyers in Augusta; and, furthermore, they say registration is not necessary to vote in the congressional elec-tions in any district of the state.

Now the state constitution says: "Laws of a general nature shall have uniform opera-tion throughout the state and no special law shall be enacted in any case for provision has been made by a general existing law."

Under this latter phrase there are those who hold that there being no general regstration law local laws which do not interfere with rights given citizens under the

Another paragraph in the state constitu-tion says: "Every male citizen of the United States, twenty-one years of age, who next preceding the election, and shall have resided six months in the county in which taxes which may hereafter be required him, and which he may have had an opportunity of paying, agreeable to the law except for the year of the election, shall be deemed an elector; * * and no person shall vote who, if challenged, shall refuse to take the following oath, or I do swear (or affirm) that I am twenty-on years of age, have resided in this state one year and in this county six months, next ceding this election. I have paid all taxe preceding this election. I have been which, since the adoption of the presentation have been which, since the adoption of the present constitution of this state, have been re-quired of me previous to this year, and which I have had an opportunity to pay, and I have not voted at this election." This present constitution was adopted in 1877, and under it no man who has failed to pay any of his taxes since 1877 is ento vote. That, of course, applies to county of the state. Thus, if challenged, whether registration applies or not, no man who has failed to pay his taxes inties the paysince '77 can vote. In many counties the parent of taxes registers you. But there many citizens of age who pay nothing but a poll tax; and under the constitution they must have paid their poll tax for every year since 1877, or since they became of age, to vote. Consequently, under the constitution whether a man has registered or not he can vote provided he takes the oath o having paid all his taxes since 1877 or since he became of age; that is, if challenged

But the challenging of voters has not been usual in Georgia. The overwhelming opinion among der crats h. the state seems to be that Judge speer's decision was correct and that regis necessary because the county laws no ing uniform are unconstitutional. It is be lieved this decision will hold and that reg estration is unnecessary in any of the elever congressional districts. The repeal of the ederal election laws have nothing to do with the case. Since the repeal all election are held under state laws and if our county cannot apply. But the demogratic congressional nominee want this question definitely settled. They want the same provisions to apply in al years ago. It is possible that the next cor gress may have a republican majority. Mr. Clay has sent out a request to each of the democratic nominees to meet here with the executive committee or Saturday to discuss the matter and take steps towards having the same election laws apply in all the districts. They think the county registration laws either should or should not be enforced in all districts alike. It is a question of vital interest which should be decided, and all the congression al districts should have the same qualifi-cations for voters. Otherwise there may b serious trouble, when the next congress meets, with contested cases.

While Mr. Turner has not gamed, Senator Waish and Mr. Garrand have been working just as hard as Major Bacon, and both will have many strong followers. THE EXCCUTIVE COMMITTEE is Called to Meet Saturday to Consider an Important Question. Chairman Clay has issued the following call for a meeting of the democratic execu-tive committee. It is for the purpose of taking some action in regard t tion for the congressional elections.

Two years ago registration did not apply in the tenth, while it did in other districts This year there must be uniform action in all the districts. Either Judge Speer's opinion as then rendered from the tenth that registration is not necessary applied to all districts, or else registration is necessary in all.

Here is the call: "Atlanta, Ga., October 8.—The state executive and central campaign committee are hereby called to meet in Atlanta on Saturday 13th instant, 10 o'clock a. m., at the Kimball house. All democratic nominees for the fifty-fourth congress from Georgia, are most earnestly requested to meet with us. Business of importance to congressenen and the democratic party to be considered.

A. S. CLAY, Chairman "State Democratic Executive Committee."

IF WAS REAL ROMANCE.

Mr. West and His Bride Have Not Returned to the City. Mr. Andrew West and his charming young bride, who were so romantically wedded at Stone Mountain Sunday night, have not yet called on their parents to be blessed Neither have they by written or spoken word announced their union. They are passing the first few days of their young maried life in delicious quiet at Sto Mountain. The Constitution of yesterday carried to the relatives and friends of the young people the first news of the happy wedding. The Constitution's announcement has not from the young people themselves. It was expected that the young couple would arrive in the city yesterday morning, but they did not come. It is likely been supplemented by any additional tidings

that they will come up today. The marriage is one of n usual romance. It was carried out in that quiet, yet determined way which characterizes true love affairs. It was, indeed, a romance.

None of Mr. West's friends had the renotest idea that he was contemplating marriage. He maintained the strictest silence regarding his plans, but he carried them from stage to stage with firm resolution. Hardly a single friend of his knew that he was paying court to Miss Jones. He never spoke of it, and his father, Colonel A. J. West, had never heard of the young lady until Saturday, when it reached his ears by pure chance. The caligraphist, who is stationed in a side corridor of the Kimball house, and who writes fancy cards, visited Colonel West's office Saturday afternoon two or three times. Each time he inquired for Mr. Andrew West and finally Colonel West asked what he asked what he wanted. It was then that the writer told him that he had been writing some wedding cards for Mr. Andrew West and that the marriage was to occur October 24th at Stone Mountain.

To say that Colonel West was astonished would be a mild expression of the fact. It was the first intimation he had ever had that his son was contemplating matrimony. Of the young lady he had never heard his son speak. He at once begun to make in-quiries about the affair. His son very frankly told him all about his acquaintance with the young lady, but stated that he was not going to be married. A telegram from Stone Mountain conveyed the information that a marriage license had been issued to

The affair was so sudden that Colones West naturally tried to induce his son to postpone the marriage until later. He was constrained to do this by reason of his son's youth and the youth of the young lady, who is only seventeen. He heard on Sunday afternoon that arrangements had been made for the marriage Sunday night and he found his son on the train bound for Stone Mountain. He was assured that there would be no marriand returned to his residence. His next information was The Constitution's an-

"Since the meeting of this committee last Thursday night," said Chairman Ellis, "I have received a letter from Mr. Mayes, one of the candidates in the fourth ward, asking that the vote for councilman from the fifth ward be recounted in the second ward box. Then, too, I have received a letter from Mr. Henry McDaniel, who was a candidate for city engineer, requesting a recount of the vote as cast for engineer in the tward. In addition to those two letthat ward. In addition to those two let-ters, I had one from Mr. W. D. Smith, who was a candidate in the fourth ward, now have, and will hand them to the clerk to be read. I would like to state that as soon as I received the letter from Captain Mayes I wrote the second ward managers box after the count of the Goldsmith-Holl'day case, and to lock the box in the vault of some bank, subject to the orders of this committee. Subsequently I was informed by the managers that my instructions had been compiled with and that the ballot box was in the vault of the Capital City bank." The letters were then passed to Secretary The letters were then passed to Secretary Adair, who read them. Captain Mayes's letter stated that he was out of the city on the day that the ballots were counted and that his absence prevented him from asking for a recount of the vote cast in the second ward before the filing of his letter. In the letter, however, he asked that the vote between himself and Mr. Sims, both of when were candidates for council in of whom were candidates for council in the fifth, be recounted at the same time as the recount was made for Mr. Goldsmith and Mr. Holliday. The letter bore the en-dorsement of several members of the com-mittee, or rather an order of several mem-this body, and that was one of the reasons for the call of this meeting.

Then Mr. McDaniel's letter was read.

Then Mr. McDaniel's letter was read. It was:

"Atlanta, Ga., October 6, 1894—Hon. W. D. Ellis, Chairman City Executive Committee—My Dear Sir: Being thoroughly convinced of serious error in the count of my vote in the second ward for city engineer, I most earnestly request a recount. I do not attribute any intention wrong, but from personal observation I allege errors of considerable magnitude. Very respectfully,

"H. T. McDANIEL."

Mr. Smith's letter was read, and was:

"Atlanta, Ga., October 6, 1894—Captain W. D. Ellis, Chairman—Dear Sir: In view of the fact that I, together with a large number of my political friends, believe that the count of ballots in the fourth ward of the city in the recent political contest is incorrect so far as it relates to the vote for councilman, and. believing that I have not been credited by the managers of said ward election with as many votes as were actually cast for me, and my opponent, Mr. Miller, having no objection, I hereby respectfully request a new and fair count of the votes cast in said ward, to be made in any way that your committee may direct. Respectfully. W. D. SMITH."

Chairman Ellis stated that when he received the letter from Mr. Smith be gave the managers of the fourth ward the same instructions relative to the ballot box of that ward that he had given the managers of the account within four days after the election, but he thought they would be safer in the bank wault and-so ordered.

Captain Brotherton asked that Mr. Captain Brotherton asked that Mr.
Mayes's request be again read and the paper was read by the secretary.
Mr. McDaniel requested to be heard by the committee and the rules were suspended so that he could talk.

"I desire," said he, "to have the vote in the second ward recounted, because I am satisfied that if it is done that my vote will be much flarger than it appears. I know that I will have more votes in that ward by 125 per cent than the returns show for me now."

"Do you think that a recount of the vote in the second, Mr. McDaniel, would change the result?" asked Mr. Rosser. "that it would elect you?"
"No, I don't think that," replied Mr. Mc-

"No, I don't think that," replied Mr. Mc-Daniel, "but if the recount in the second would add 125 per cent to my vote what would the result be in the other wards? Remember I don't think that any dishones ty was practiced, but then there were two men of the same name running in the race and the vote of the two may have become confused and their count will show this. Why, when the recount for Ma Goldsmith and Mr. Holliday was being made there were found ballots so badly scratched that they could not be made out."

they could not be made out."
"I move," said Captain Brotherton, "that we recount the Mayes-Sims vote in the we recount the Mayes-Sims vote in the second ward. I know that if an error has been made and it lets Ma. Mayes in Mr. Sims-does not want the place and I know too, that Mr. Mayes would not serve unless he was fairly elected to the place."

"The chair holds," said Chairman Ellis,

"The chair holds," said Chairman Eliis,
"that a motion to recount the vote cannot be entertained until the action of the executive committee declaring, the result last Thursday night is reconsidered."
"Then, I move to reconsidered."
"Then, I move to reconsidered that action," said Captain Brotherton.
"I don't see how we can do that," remarked Colonel W. S. Thomson. "There is no law making us a returning board, and the law on the subject is plain. It says that those boxes shall go to the clerk of the superior court, and that is the end of it. When we met last week for the purpose of making a consolidation and announcing the result was the time for these objections to be raised, not now. At that meeting we took an action. The action is known, and is final, and there is no way for us to undo it that I know of, unless we want to ride rough-shod over the law."
"Here is the law," said Captain Brotherton, drawing a place of paper from his pocket and handing it to the ascretary.

"Oh, that is only a newspaper clipping," remarked the secretary, giancing at the paper as he accepted it.

Mr. Cabanias was opposed to a reconsideration of the question, asserting that the law was piain, and that the result had been made known by the committee, and that there was no way to change or undo it. He recited what he construed to be the law on the case.

Judge Hillyer read the law, and was of the opinion that it contemplated the right to make the recount.

Captain Brotherton made a second speech in favor of the reconsideration of the question.

Mr. Mahan thought the reconsideration ought to prevail, and that the recount ought to be had.

Mr. Slaton opposed the recount, and said that he would not vote for it unless he ascertained that it was imperative. He declared that the box might not be in the same condition it was in when the count was made for Mr. Goldsmith and Mr. Holliday and said that he had been informed. liday, and said that he had been informed that the box had been tampered with on that occasion.

"That box," said Captain Brotherton,
"has been in the hands of the chairman of this committee, or at least where he instructed his agents to place it, and it has been safely kept, as will be found when opened, as it was when it was sealed up by the managers."

"I don't see why any one wants to object to the reconsideration so that there

"I don't see why any one wants to object to the reconsideration so that there may be a recount," said Mr. Howell. "It has been charged that errors have been made, and the charges reflect upon the managers and the clerks who had charge of the box. In justice to these gentlemen I think that a recount ought to be ordered. I think it ought to be ordered, too, in justice to both Mr. Mayes and Mr. Sims. I don't think I know any of the gentlemen, but if I were in the place of any of them, I would want that recount made Now Mr. Slaton claims that to open this box again puts us where we may have to open all of them. I don't think so. That will be a matter in the discretion of this will be a matter in the discretion of this committee. We ought to be able to know when we have gone far enough. I am, as have said, for the investigation, and shall vote for the motion to reconsider the ac-tion of this committee at its last meeting." "If I am assured," said Mr. Rosser, "that that ballot box is like it was when the voters left it, I shall be for the recount. I think it is something that should be, and that we should order it. But if the box is not as it was when the voters left it, then I am opposed to a recount. I see the managers here, and they can probably throw some light on the matter."

Mr. Mathews and Mr. Bacon, two of the managers in the second ward, spoke, telling of the count. They both asserted that when they had completed the count they had sealed the box, and carried it to the executive committee, and that, after the recount in the Goldsmith-Holliday matter had been made, the ballots were put back in the box and the box was sealed and placed in the bank vault as the chairman of the executive committee had ordered. Both gentlemen said that the greatest care had been taken to prevent any one from touching the ballots and that any one from touching the ballots and that when the box was last sealed it was just as it was when it came from the voters. Mr. Barret, a fifth ward resident, was produced by Mr. Slaton. Mr. Barret said that he was present when the recount was made and that he thought too many outiders were allowed near the ballots, and that one of the ballots fell into the hands of some outsider during the count.

Mr. Holliday, who made the race against

Mr. Goldsmith and in whose interes tee that he was present when the recount was made and with Mr. Goldsmith went over all the votes. He said that the work could not have been cleaner and fairer from interference from outsiders than it was and lenied that any one but those entrusted with the recount could have had access to

Mr. Hillyer, one of the clerks in the second ward, gave a history of the day at the polls and the long count which ensued.

The rules were suspended to hear from Mr. Stockdell, who advocated the reconsideration in order that a recount could be had. Mr. Stockdell held in his hand a ticket showing the vote of each candidate for ouncil in the second ward. "I want." he said. "for those I represent didates in the first ward and the combined vote of the candidates in the second, and the combined vote of the candidates in the third, and so on all the way down to show that in the second ward the vote was mighty near the same. It shows, too, that it is not far from the combined vote of Mr. Goldmith and Mr. Holliday after the recount that the vote in the second be counted ail the way through." "What do you represent, Mr. Stockdell?" asked Mr. Rosser. "The left ticket," put in Captain Brotherton.

"It don't matter whom I represent," replied

Mr. Stockdell, looking over in the neighbor-hood of where Captain Brotherton was "Ah, well, we'll take that up directly," said Captain Brotherton with a wave of

"Well, you keep quiet, over there," said

Mr. Stockdell.
"Dry up yourself," retorted Captain Brotherton. "You've got no business here "Well, I'm here," replied Mr. Stockdell, "and right here I am going to stay until I get through."

Mr. Stockdell then read from his ficket the number of votes the candidates from each of the wards got in the second and each of the wards got in the second and showed that the difference was very slight, and that it wound take quite an error in the second to change the result. That error, however, appeared from the figures to be wholly improbable. The presentation was a good one and was taken as an argument by other members of the committee during the evening.

Captain Ellis held that the committee had the right to reconsider its action and to reopen the question. He asserted that it was within the power of the committee to open the question as to the point at issue in the second ward or to open it on all points. He was of the opinion, too, that every ward could be opened in the same way.

points. He was of the opened in the same way.

Mr. Slaton moved as a substitute that the reconsideration be as to all points in the second ward, but the substitute was lost.

On the motion to reconsider the ayes and nays were asked for and were ordered. The call resulted:

Ayes—Reneau, Brotherton, Huff, Hillyer, Brown, Humphries, Cassin, Shropshire, Mahan, Glass, Slaton, Rosser, Howell—13.

Nays—Branan, Thomson, Hawkins, Adams, Loefier, Cabaniss, Adalm—7.

"Now, I move," said Captain Brotherton, "hat we recount the vote of Mr. Mayes and Mr. Sims in the second ward and on that motion I ask for the ayes and nays."

The roll was called and the call resulted:
Ayes—Reneau, Brotherton, Huff, Hillyer, Brown, Cassin, Shropshire, Mahan, Glass, Slaton, Rosser and Howell—12.

Nays—Branan, Humphries, Thomson, Hawkins, Adams, Loefier, Cabanas and Adalr—8.

The meeting then adjourned, but almost immediately after the adjournment, Mr. John Clay Smith, attorney for W. D. Smith, who was a candinate in the fourth and wanted the vote of that ward recounted, asked for the consideration of that question. Chairman Ellis tried to secure the attention of the members of the committee and obtain another meeting, but the members felt like going home and there was no consideration of the Smith request for a recount of the vote in the fourth ward.

The ballot box of the second ward is now sealed and under lock and acy in the Capital City bank vault and will be brought out this afternoon and turned over to the second ward managers and to Mr. Sims and Mayes for the recount. The recount will, in all profishility, take place in the council chamber this afternoon in the presence of the friends of the two candidates, No time or place, bowever, has yet been determined upon by the candidates or the managers for the recount.

Mr. Tuckerman is a most affable man and a talented newspaper writer, and that he will have a most entertaining story about the Gate City goes without saying.

Mr. W. Kingston and Mr. Woodrow and others of the local committees are sparing no efforts to make the coming convention all that it could be from a local color. The space has all been mapped out in machinery hall at the Piedmont exposition grounds for the holding of the convention and there is more space engaged by exhibitors this time than ever before.

The performance of Archie Boyd and his company last evening at the Grand was such as deserved a more crowded house than the incessant rain allowed. Those present realized full well what was missed by those who would not face the weather. "The Country Squire" is a most pleasing production and is a strong play. It has been rewritten and is not at all the same play that has been seen in Atlanta before. There has been more life, mor genuin force put into it than before and the characters are all well developed. Archie Boyd as Eb Tobias, the honest-hearted old countryman, is just as perfect in the work as he has always been in similar characters and is extremely natural. The character of Eb Tobias is well drawn, too, and suit the man. Alfred Hastings as Andrew Tobias, the rich brother of Eb, who, in a bias, the rich brother of Eb, who, in a striking scene of pathos in the midst of the mirthful play, is ashamed of his less fortunate kinsman, upheld the strength of the part. The work of the pretty little soubrette, Miss Lillian Harper, was far above the ordinary and she won golden opinions from the audience. With all her happy little songs and many airs and lances she completely captivated the peoplause time and time again. When she sang "Kiss Me, Little Darling, Goodnight Once More" she was called back several times over and was kept before the lights long while, retiring with a protest from The singing of the male quartet, consist-

"Yon Yonson" Wednesday. "Yon Yonson," a Sweedish dialect comedy, will be at the Grand Wednesday and Thursday. The management desires first season south of this play and that it must not be supposed that "Yon Yonson" semble "Ole Olson," a comedy which was

Gus Heege, the author of this play, takes the star part and he will be seen Wednes day night in his clever impersonation of Yon, the Americanized Swede. "Yon Yonson" was the first of all Swedish dialect comedies. Its wonderful success in the north led others to copy and put on the "Yon Yonson" is under the management of Jacob Litt, who will send south this season "The Ensign" and "In Old Kentucky," two productions that have become very popular.

The play which will be seen tomorrow night is a large scenic production and the scenes, depicting a log jam and life in the northwest woods, are said to be wonderful creations of the scenic painter's art.

Nelly McHenry Coming Soon. The folly comedienne, Nellie McHenry, surrounded by her own company, will pre-sent the circo-comedy, "A Night at the Circus," Friday and Saturday at the Grand. Miss McHenry is one of the most popular soubrettes of today, being gifted with a oretty face and figure and a sweet, round voice, she pleases every one.

Miss McHenry is one of those magnetic women who catch an audience from the very first and holds them until the fall of the curtain.

The company engaged to support the star is a good one and "A Night at the Circus" in their hands will be one of the highest comedies of the season.

CHINESE IN COURT.

Two Cases of Long Standing to Be

Two cases were called yesterday morninterpreter present to put into other than pigeon English the testimony of the witnesses, Judge Lumpkin granted a continuance until Wednesday morning in order that Jung Find, of New York, might be telegraphed for.

One case was that of Chung Yick against Lee Sam Sing, and the other was the suit of Mrs. Sarah Leon against Jung Ah Bing. Both of these suits is a string of intrigu and court matters that are more complicated than the causes that led to the war between China and Japan. As might be expected, and as most in keeping with the story, the whole affair began about a the husband of Sarah Leon, an Irishwoman, ran a laundry which was supposed to be-long to him. Chung Yick, who owns a number of laundries and leases them t but this was not brought forward as matter of record until H. Leon died. As soon as her Chinese spouse had departed and she had burned joss, if she stuck to the orthodox Chinese ceremony, the widow determined to sell the laulndry and told Lee Jung, who is known also as Lee San Sing, that she would sell out for $445. Chung Yick claims to have notified L. Sam Sing that he had best not buy the laundry, as there was no title invested in H. Leon or his widow. Not heeding C. Yick's ad-pending there was a warrant taken out against Chung Yick charging him with as-sault and battery on Lee Sam Sing. The case was tried before Judge Van Epps, and the prosecution introduced a weapon in the shape of a concealed sword umbrel-vice L. Sam Sing bought the laundry. Sui by Chung Yick followed, a proceeding which aroused H. Leon's widow She at once began a bail trover action against Chung Ah Bing, a younger brother of Chung Yick, declaring that a watch in his possession belonged to her deceased Chinese husband. While these suits were ia, which was alleged to be Chung Yick'a Chung Yick proved an alibi, and proved that one of the witnesses was a highbinder, and subsequently the highbinder was taken to Marietta by Sheriff Barnes and permit-

C. Ah Bing, Chung Tick's brother, was then accused of writing an obscene letter to H. Leon's widow, and he was prosecuted before Judge Gaston, who was at that time United States commissioner. At the trial DISPOSED CI.

United States commissioner. At the trial the defense proved that the young man could neither read nor write English, and the warrant was dismissed. Not content with this, the enemies of Chung Yick had him arested for gamblinis, but he was found not guilty and then there followed an attempt to put the business of Chung. Ah Bing into the hands of a receiver.

Thus, when the two cases now on the docket of Judge Lumpkin's court are disposed of it is probable that the local Chinese war will be disposed of in short order, and the records of the court no longer by disturbed by such discords as these.

Yesterday's transactions on all the exanges resulted in lower prices.

cotton Liverpool started us with very bearish cpening with sales of 10,000 bales on the spot at unchanged quotations. At 2 o'clock Liverpool was barely steady for arrivals at practically the same figures, but the spot sales were increased to 12,000 bales at a reduction of 1-18d in the price.

The New York market at the opening was about 6 points below the final figures of Saturday. A better feeling immediately de-veloped and during the morning hours the advance from the opening was some 13 held, and during the afternoon the market gradually sold off until the advance of the morning had been lost and the closing was quiet and steady at a loss of about 2 points from Saturday.

The bearish factors were too numerous for the bulls. In the first place, Liverpool was lower for both spots and arrivals; second, receipts at the ports promised to be heavy, with thi) estimates for today more promising figures, and last the English spinner is apparently satisfied that he can get cotton at present prices, and it is useless to advance prices of his own volition.

The posting of the estimated receipts at New Orleans was responsible, to a great extent, for the break in the afternoon yesterday. Immediately the estimate was sent out, which was for 27,000 to 29,000 bales, against about 20,000 last year. The markets both at New York and New Orleans began to sag, without any rallying power, until the close.

There is another tropical storm browsing in the gulf and the bears are placing their hope on the damage it will do. If it is possible for the storm, by wind and rain, to cause some damage and then a cold wave with frost to cause some more, the buils will have a chance to stampede the bears and have it their own way for quite a while.

In the meantime, it would be well to watch business conditions as well as at-rospheric conditions.

Chicago Gas was quoted ex-dividend 11/2 per cent yesterday.

Chicago felt the effect of the bearishness in the other and the speculative articles there are lower.

"Radiroad affairs in the west are bad, traffic light, earnings indifferent. Trade advices indicate that recovery has lost some headway and that manufacturers feel adversely the effects of the decreased buying power due to low-priced wheat and cotton.
"In Wall street these conditions are for the present subservient to speculative considerations. There money is a drug at 1 per cent and skillful manipulators use it to the advantage of themselves and the discomfort of the bears whenever the market becomes oversold, which they will do as long as holders keep their stocks in the hope of better times.

"If Mr. Havemeyer has planned to start the next upward movement from the 70s a further decline in Sugar is inevitable. During the past week Wall street was treated to such doleful accounts of the condition of the trade as to leave the impression that this inside interest was for marking down the certificates to that range despite their already great decline.

"Stocks advanced at the close, led by those mentioned in this paper Saturday morning, including Westers-Union, Chicago Gas, and St. Paul, while Reading was the strong bankrupt stock, gaining 1½ on moderate transactions. The new comer among the Industrials, Bay State Gas, was active. Opening at 30%, it soid at 30 and 32, ending near the top.

THE STOCK MARKET.

The Tendency of Prices Was Upward, but the Close Shows a Loss.

NEW YORK, October 8.—The tendency of prices at the opening of the stock exchange was upward, but the improvement was checked by liberal offerings of American Sugar. The stock was sold all day long and at the close the price touched 814 against 88 early in the day. This is the lowest point reached since the current bear movement in the stock was inaugurated. The sales were 71,100 shares in a grand total for the entire list of 155,858 shares. The selling was based on the poor condition of the market for the refined product and the reports of cutting of prices at the west. Distilling and Cattle Feeding fell from 10% to 3½ on a raport that the company intended to issue $2,500,000 bonds in order to retire its rebate vouchers. The bonds, so it was said, would be offered at 50. Bay State Gas, which made its appearance in the unlisted department on Saturday, dropped 7½ points to 24½ on efforts to market a small block of the stock. Subsequently it rallied to 28 and closed at 23 bid, offered at 28. Chicago Gas fell from 74% to 73% ex-dividend of 1½ per cent. Cordage preferred declined 13% to 24. The heaviness of American Sugar had an adverse influence on the railway list. The Grangers were also attacked by the bears. These issues declined ½60% per cent, Rock Island leading. Rumors of rate difficulties, blizzard in the northwest, etc., were used against the stocks. Reading was weak and fell about 2 points. The proposed reorganization is not gaining many friends here or abroad. Paqino Mall was exceptionally firm and rose from 14% to 16% on favorable reports about the company's finances, The market in the closing dealings was heavy at about the lowest point of the day. Net changes show losses of ¼61½ per cent outside of Sugar, which declined 4½ per cent outside of Sugar, which declined 12% and Pacific Mall stocks aggregated 82,737 shares and of unlisted stocks 83,121 shares, including the following. Closing Stock Review.

Closing Stock Review.

NEW YORK, October 8.—Foreign and Domestic News Company, By Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager.—The stock market was unsettled in the closing hour owing to the sharp break in American Sugar Refining, and a sympathetic decline in the other Industrials.

The selling of Sugar was by a leading commission house, and was undoubtedly long stock, although average brokers made a feint to buy openly on a scale down. The stock came down so easily, however, that stock came down so easily, however, that a number of stop orders were reached. Chicago Gas was fairly steady, and Liv-erpool brokers bought moderately at the decline.

Room traders hammered Burlington and Quincy, but failed to dislodge any long stock.

The Wheeler party did not renew their attacks on the Grangers in the final dealings because the good support to St. Paul alarmed them.

The talk on Distilling and Cartle Feeding was more bearish, and there was a report that the stockholders will have to be assessed to furnish, immediately, $2,000,000 working capital.

south and predictions of frost in Arkansas and Texas. Then this improvement was lost and prices wound up slightly lower on the liberal crop market. Local southern and European operators sold considerable. Cold weather and brisk winds were predicted for tomorrow for most all points of the south, but warmer in Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Indian Territory. The weather at the south has been cold for two days. At Memphis and Fort Smith it was down to 42 degrees on Saturday night. In Oklahoma the temperature fell to 36 degress last night. Anything like frost before the likh of October in any part of the cotton belt will make the bears very nervous, at the same time a natural increase in the receipts will tend to discourage the bulls. A New Orleans dispatch said a dispatch from Little Rock said the local signal service predicts frost in Tennessee, Arkansas and northern Texas tonight. Liverpool declined 1-64d on spots and 4½ points for futures, but the sales on the spot were 12,000 bales, and futures got back most of the early loss and closed firm. New Orleans advanced 9@12 points, though it reacted later. Some of the southern markets were easier on the spot, but New Orleans did a good business—7,500 bales—at unchanged prices. The port receipts were 69,333, against 52,480 last year. So far this week, 107,799, against 83,303 last year. The exports from the ports were large, reaching over 30,000 bales. Houston receipts, 12,568, against 9,257 last year. The dominant influences within the next forty-eight hours are likely to be the weather news and the crop movement. The market responds quite as readily to bullish as to bearish news. The tone is nervous, and the fluctuations are likely to be quick and wide. It is reported that a well-known New Orleans operator covered fully twenty thousand bales of short cotton today.

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter. NEW YORK, October 8.—(Special.)—The market today was unusually nervous and variable, being swayed alternately by the heavy receipts recorded today, and anticipated for tomorrow, and by vague fears and predictions of a cold wave that might bring frost in its train. Liverpool broke badly, and our opening was 6 points lower, the first sale of January being at 6.01. Then the first sale of January being at 6.01. Then there was a rapid advance, in which January sold at 6.14. Then there was an almost equally rapid reaction, January selling down to 6.05. Again January rallied to 6.12, and once more it declined to 6.05. The close was quiet and steady, with January 6.05 @ 506. The traders are all watching for the cold wave and waiting for the bureau to report on Wednesday. Neither buils nor bears feel sure of their ground.

dubbard, Price & Co.'s Cotton Letter. NEW YORK, October 8.—Summary Hub-bard, Price & Co.'s Cotton Letter.—Large offerings of cotton from the south in Liv erpool this morning caused a depression there of from 4-64 to 5-64d. In New York the market opened weak at 5 points decline rom Saturday, advancing sharply some 13 coints from the lowest quotations made uppoints from the lowest quotations made up-on the appearance of a severe storm in the gulf, and rumors that a cold wave would extend over a portion of the south-western cotton belt, accompanied by reports of frost. From this point there was a recession based upon the failure of the government to predict the frost which private advices had led the trade to expect, the market becoming very weak at attacks on the Grangers in the final dealings because the good support to St. Paul alarmed them.

Rock Island'showed no rallying power, however, and western houses sold on the small car movement over the road last week.

The cold weather in the west and blizzard in the Dakotas stimulated a selling movement in Burlington and Quincy, but the Cammack party bought on a scale down, owing to the disclost of an unwieldy short interest.

Outs—There was nothing to attract attention in this market. For some time after the opening steadiness prevailed, but with the break in the other grains there was a sympathetic one in oats. May closed to lower than Saturday. Oash oats were to be closer than Saturday. Oash oats were for the product up, with the evident intent of running in last week's short sellers. They were only partially successful in their design, the decline in grain affecting this market sufficiently to bring about a weaker feeling. There was a moderate advance in the five hog market at the yards, which helped the tone of privisions early. Lamson Bros. & Co's. Grain Letter.

By private wire to J. C. Knox, manager.
CHICAGO, October 8.—Indications pointed to a bull campaign at the opening this morning. Cables displayed a better tone, while on passage wheat decreased 1,072,000 bushels. Inadequate offerings caused a sharp advance and infitial quotations stood at 1½61% cover Saturday's close. As figures on the visible supply began coming in, however, it was soon apparent that estimators, who prognesticated a 500,000,000 bushel increase, had a miscue and the market took on a tired aspect, slumping %c on the final report, showing an increase of 2,201,000. Total clearances were light, about 363,000 bushels of wheat and flour, while local receipts at 110 cars were double what was expected. New York, which has been a seller here, reports a quiet market, with but little foreign buying.

Corn opened firm and higher. Offerings were light and talk of a good cash demand helped near-by futures, which quickly scored an advance of 1c. On passage there was a decrease of 750,000. Receipts were light with an estimate of 95 cars for tomorrow. The big decrease of 468,000 in local stocks helped prices some, but as the visible decreased one-half the amount expected the demand became less active and the market eased off with the break in wheat. Scalpers, who had taken on a fair load early, became free sellers, an elevator concern selling a fair line of May.

Oats have been fairly active. Prices at the opening were a shade higher and there was a good demand from shipping houses. Receipts were slightly over expectations, while the visible supply increased 416,000 bushels. The market became easy with other grains, closing at about opening prices.

Provisions opened firm and sold up sharply on the light hog receipts at the yards. As the session advanced local offerings became good—better than inquiry—and prices gradually gave way.

The Coffee Market.

S. Munn & Co., in their weekly circular, say:
"With occasional rallies, the general drift of prices has been downward, and we do not see how the general trend can take any other direction. Times are hard, persons in every walk of life are economizing and coffee continues at a comparatively sons in every walk of life are economizing and coffee continues at a comparatively high range of prices, whereas such valuable commodities as wheat and cotton are selling at prices heretofore unknown in the commercial history of this country. It seems an anomaly that coffee should sell at existing quotations when almost everything else is unprecedentedly cheap, and when, moreover, the stocks of coffee are large and ladications point to one of the most bountiful crops on record. Trade and speculation are admittedly dull. Thee outside public is not likely to take hold of the bull side until coffee falls to a price which shall be universally regarded as cheap. During September the world's visible supply increased close to 280,000 bags, whereas in September last year it fell off approximately 400,000 bigs. It is now 2,927, be bags, against 2,23,1568 a year ago. The visible supply of Brazil in this country is 445,513, against 322,805 bags a year ago. Rio exchange has lately been declining and prices of coffee there have also been weak, while large quantities are daily pouring into Rio and Santos. It is generally believed that Baltimore and Havre are heavily long of the market. There is no very extensive short interest to act ds a support to prices, and, at the same time, there is certainly no general desire to purchase for long ac count. In fact, buying here, with the exand, at the same time, there is certainly no general desire to purchase for long ac count. In fact, buying here, with the exception of occasional supporting, orders has been simply to cover shorts. We can only reiterate our conviction that the natural tendency of coffee prices is towards a much cheaper basis. A year ago October was 17 cents. The price has since failen about 4½ cents, but we do not think that the bubble has been really pricked even yet."

The Cereal Situation.

The Cereal Situation.

From The New York Stockholder.

The week in the grain market opened with everybody discouraged. Wheat made a new low record: The depressing feature at the outset was the weakness of foreign markets. There seemed to be no bottom for Liverpool quotations—a fact which induced considerable liquidation both here and at Chicago. Of course, the decline abroad was due to continued evidences of over production and the absence of consuming demand. This was reflected in the middle of the week by an increase in Bradstreet's visible supply of over 4,000,000 bushels. It was still further indicated by an increase in the world's visible supply of nearly 3,000,000 bushels. The figures simply disheariened holders.

The market had not had a war scene in axelting elevator room. Actual receipts were lighter than ever, and it transpired towards the close that the amount of corn side tracked had been exaggerated. This strengthened the market. If receipts during October average no larger than during the past week, higher prices will prevail. The statistical position of corn is very different from that of wheat, and the market could easily be builted if the big spectatow in the wheat should see fit to take hold of it. Provisions declined on liquidation by country holders. The bear party consisted of the Cudahys and their followers. Mr. Armour was also said to be working on the bear side. The result was a heavy decline. The market should do better now, as a large long interest has been weeded out and a considerable short in arest row, as a large long interest has been weeded out and a considerable short in arest row, as a large long interest has been weeded out and a considerable short in arest row, as a large long interest has been weeded out and a considerable short in arest row, as a large long interest has been weeded out and a considerable short in artest row, as a large long interest has been weeded out and a considerable short in artest row, as a large long interest has been weeded out and a considerable short in artest row, as a large long interest has been weeded out and a considerable short in a rest that he cause and a considerable short in a rest that the state of the provisions is the cotton situation. At 5%c a pound cotton is cheaper than wheat. There is a great deal of labor in cotton, and freight rates are very much against it. The southerner is getting so little for his product that he cannot afford to buy provisions. The last two weeks in September and the first two in October should see here at Chicago the best demand for product during the year. But the planters are poor in the south; they have probably had all the advances on their crops they can get, and they are now in no condition to furnish the darknees with bacon. They must skimp along as th

Mr. Baldwin is thoroughly in spirit with the promoters of the great exposition and is going to do everything within his power to further the interests of the exposition and Atlanta. Mr. Beauprie, superintendent of this division of the Southern, having charge of all the Atlanta terminals, will be directly in charge of the work of putting in the sidetracks and will, under the direction of Mr. Baldwin, have a full force of hands at work within the next few days.

The N., C. and St. Louis. Relative to the Nashville and Chatta-nooga The St. Louis Republic has this to-say about its earnings and its connection with the Louisville and Nashville: "The Nashville, Chattanooga and St.

Louis is one of the smaller roads whose affairs have always attracted more or less attention. Time was when this road was a very aggressive rival of the larger systems. That, however, was long ago. For some years now the road has been controlled by the Louisville and Nashville. The management is the same as it has been for a decade or more, and the accounts and opera-tions are kept separate and distinct from those of the Louisville and Nashville. Ex-tensions have been added in late years f over seventy-four miles, thus showing that the road has by no means been allowed to stand still. The year ending June 30, 1894, was a trying one for railroad properties all over the country, and the Nashville and Chattanoogs necessarily shared in the general depression. In some respects it suffered more than other roads because it has a considerable reaffic in coal, iron and other minerals, where the effects of industrial depression were especially pronounced. The gross earnings declined from $5,131,779 in 1893, to $4,521,662 in 1894. For the last three years the figures have included the earnings of the Western and Atlantic. With these eliminated the late year's total of the gross would be the smallest of any year since 1888. Tonight, at Phillips & Crew's music store, the first rehearsal for the concert to be given at the Grand, under the direction of Signor Campobello, will occur, and the musical director desires every member of the chorus to attend.

He gives notice to all the members that, notwithstanding the inclement weather, the rehearsal will take place as announced for this evening, beginning promptly at 8 o'clock.

this evening, beginning promptly at 8 o'clock.

The chorus is made up of the best musical talent of the city, and this feature of the entertainment will be one of the gems of the evening. Signor Campbello has given much of his time to the training of the chorus, and the public will be surprised at the degree of excellence to which he has attained. As a musical genius, he has few equals in this country, and his talents are destined to secure for him a high prestige among the musical stars of the land.

Nearly every prominent musician in the city has consented to take a part in the entertainment, and the occasion will long be remembered as one of the sweetest carnivals of song ever held in Atlanta. A large sum of money will no doubt be raised for the benefift of the children's ward in this way, and the audience will be richly compensated.

West Point road Sunday morning was much worse than was indicated by first Fifteen people were hurt, one of whi dled yesterday afternoon. One other person may die.

The nature of the wreck was such that it is almost a miracle that there were so few of the passengers injured. People who viewed the scene declare it to be one of the worst wrecks they have ever wit-

The first train into the city over the Atlants and West Point since the wreck of Sunday came in yesterday.

On the train were several of those who were aboard at the time the accident occurred.

Dr. Hunter Cooper, surgeon for the rail-road, also came back, and was in his office yesterday when seen by The Constitution. Dr. Cooper says there is but little to tel about the wreck further than what has already been told in the papers. He says ready been told in the papers. He says the train going from Atlanta was just coming to the bridge across what is known as Ossinnappa creek, beyond West Point, when the last truck of the engine tender ran off. The engine did not run off, but the truck of the tender was sufficient to cause the mail car to bounce the track and then in turn the haggrage coach the active and turn the baggage coach and the other cars behind. The strange part of it was that the train remained on the trestle, despite The train remained on the trestle, despite the fact that the cars were off the track and the woodwork of the trestle was badly torn up by the sharp edges of the wheels. After passing over the trestle the cars took a tumble down an embankment, and then it was that the deadly work was done.

The mail car was crushed in like an egg shell, and it was a wonder that the mail agent was not killed instantly. The baggage car was also seriously injured, and Dr. Cooper declares it to be remarkaand Dr. Cooper declares it to be remarka-ble that scuh slight injuries were inflicted upon the occupants. The passengers were all badly shaken up. The mail car made a slide off its trucks and went tumb-ling down the embankment, and then came the trucks down on top of it, crushing the car to a broken shell.

The sleeping car was pulled off its rear truck, and the passengers were all badly torn up.

Dr. Cooper says there is a probability of but one of the passengers dying, and he was a tramp, and was not bruised at all by the wreck. It seems that the tramp was put on the train at Hogansville and his way paid to West Point. At West Point somebody had paid his way to Opelika, and he was riding in the smoking car, still sick. He suffered no injury from the wreck, but will die from his fever, which Dr. Cooper says was raging high when he came to treat him.

The railroad people have put the trestle in good condition again and the trains will be passing all right today. Dr. Cooper says it was about as bad a wrack as he ever saw not to have killed anybody or inflicted any hofe highry than it did, for the cars were all torn to pieces.

The engine did not leave the track at all and the train men were not hurt.

Mr. Hull Ware's Miraculous Escape.

Mr. Howell Ware, of the Western Union office, this city, returned yesterday from the scene of the accident. His brother, Mr. Hull Ware, was in the wreck. News of the terrible tumble of the train reached Atlanta my brother had stood was a perfect wreck, yet he escaped with hardly a scratch. It was marvelous. Had he stood two feet in either direction from the spot on which he did stand he would have been mashed to death. A heavy pair of trucks came through the roof and settled two feet in front of him, and a mountain of baggage turnkied down immediately behind him. He continued on to Montgomery last night.

"The wreck was a frightful one, and how the passengers escaped is a mystery to

The Unknown Man Dies. Opelika, Ala., October 8.—(Special.)—At 4 o'clock this afternoon death relieved the unknown white man who was injured in the wreck on the Western Railway of Alabama yesterday morning. The man, whose name is thought to be Alexander Johnson, never spoke after vainly endeavoring to tell your correspondent his name, and he was buried in the potter's field this afternoon by the Broad company, unknown and un-mourned. No identification papers of any description were found on his person.

It is now thought the chances of recovery are against Mr. R. H. Drake, a white man who sustained severe injuries and whose name was accidentally left out of the report o last night. Mr. Drake, who is at the Cooper house, is badly hurt in the chest. Five negroes were pretty badly injured and a report unauthenticated is to the effect that a negro man who was hurt and removed to a house in the suburbs of the city, died from injuries sustained late this afternoon.

President Smith and Leading Counsel George P. Harrison, have been quartered at the Cooper house since morning, and it is understood that a compromise with all the injured passengers has been effected and the wounded paid in full.

No trains have crossed Ossinnappa bridge since the accident occurred, the vestibule limited transferring passengers instead of passing, as was reported last night. It will be at least twenty-four hours yet before a train can pass the obstruction caused by the lodged sleeper.

COMMITTEE TO GO TO NEW YORK

Exposition Matters Moving Along with a Rush-A Meeting of the Directors Yesterday Morning. About the Train's Fatal Tumble. Within a fortnight the actual work o building the manufacture's building at Pledmont park will be begun.

Sealed bids for furnishing the foundation and the material for the building have been advertised for, beginning in this morning's paper. These bids must be in by next Monday at noon. They must conform to the specifications of Architect Bradford L. Gilbert, which are in President Collier's of-the sealed proposals are that a certified check for $200 must accompany each bid, so as to insure good faith on the part of the bidder. If the successful bidder fails to furnish the necessary band and to come up to the requirements of the exposition management this $300 will be forfeited.

The beginning of the work will be attended with imposing formalities. The ceremonies will be as extensive as were planned for the inauguration of the work some emonies will be as extensive as were planned for the inauguration of the work some weeks ago when it was found imperative to portpone it on account of the weather.

The stipulations in the advertisement for

It is very likely that a day or two or three days subsequent to the meeting of the legislature, which occurs on October 24th instant, will be selected for the exercises. It is the purpose of the management of the exposition to have the legislature present in a body.

Architect Gilbert will arrive from New York in a few days to take charge of the York in a few days to take charge of the work, so far as attention from him is neces-sary. He will be a valuable adviser for the A Meeting Held Yesterday.

There was a meeting of the executive committee of the exposition yesterday morn-ing in President Collier's office. An invitation was extended by the directors, through Captain Robert J. Lowry, to the American Bankers' Association to hold their next convention here. The convention meets to-day, and Captain Lowry left yesterday to attend the convention.

To Go to New York.

A committee consisting of the following A committee consisting of the following directors of the exposition has been appointed by President Collier to go to New York next week to confer with the railroad presidents in regard to the rates to the exposition: Messrs. C. A. Collier, E. P. Chamberlin, S. M. Inman, W. A. Hemphill, R. D. Spalding, H. M. Atkinson, H. H. Cabaniss, A. W. Smith Clerk Howell, E. P. Black. Spalding, H. M. Atkinson, H. H. Cabaniss, A. W. The evidence to connect the accused with the burgiary as a principal being wholly circumstantial, and, while sufficient to raise a presumption against him, yet, as it did not exclude every other reasonable hypothesis, but, on the contrary, the hypothesis that the burgiary was committed by the woman with whom he lived being sustained, not only by her positive testimony, but by physical facts established by other witnesses, the verdict for burgiary was unwarranted by the evidence and the court erred in hot granting a new trial. 1. No disposition of personal property held under a conditional purchase is a punishable offense under the act of September 28, 1833, except by selling or incumbering the property, the title of the act not being sufficiently comprehensive to embrace any other mode of disposition.

2. As the constitution requires the trial of all criminal cases to be in the county where the crime was committed, the provision in the act above referred to, which subjects the offender to be tried in the court of his residence is unconstitutional as applied to cases in which it affirmatively appars that the offense was committed in some other county. But as the fact of residence in a particular county would warrant the inference, nothing to the contrary appearing, that any act done by the accused was done in that county, there is no necessary conflict with the constitution in other cases.

Huffman v. The State. Before Judge Brown. City court of Carroll county.

1. An indictment under code, section 4577 (a), for interrupting or disturbing a school, describes sufficiently the mode of interruption or disturbance which charges that the offense was committed "by cursing and quarreling and fighting and discharging a loaded pistol," and under such indictment evidence is admissible which tends to establish the charge.

2. It is not cause for reversing the denial of a continuance that the movant made a legal showing as to the absence of one witness, it appearing by the same showing, on cross-examination, that another witness was present by whom he could prove the facts to which the absent witness was present by whom he could prove the facts to which the absent witness was expected to testify, and it not appearing that the discretion of the court was abused.

3. Although putting one out of a house in which the exercises of a school are being conducted, for misbehavior, is not an arrest, yet where the misbehavior amounted to a penal offense, it was a verbal inaccuracy rather than a substantial error for the court to denominate the expulsion as an arrest and instruct the jury that a private person is legally empowered to arrest any one committing an offense in his presence.

Few readers of American books will fail to concur in the estimate placed upon Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes by the author of the biographical sketch which appeared in yesterday's Constitution,

Since Macaulay no man has given more vigorous impulse or made more lasting impress on the productions of his contemporaries in his own country, and if he has been surpassed in this by the great Englishman it is only because American environments are not amenable to the same laws that govern the scope of an author's influence

Macaulay and Holmes exhibit few points of resemblance, If they are judged by their more salient characteristics; but it is in their preliminary processes, their deeper studies, that similarity is discovered. Both read widely and both possessed in a wonderful measure that power of discrimination which distinguishes the student from the bookworm, and enables its possessor to assimilate those vast stores of information necessary alike to the historian and essayist.

Macaulay's phenomenal memory enabled him to invest the driest details of an uninteresting subject with new charms by drawing on a stock of miscellaneous information, such as is seldom collected in one man's lifetime. Holmes brought to bear on the topics he treated an advoltness and masterly precision of effort, an unstudied selectness of illustration, that enthral the reader by very simplicity.

The former laid every land and every literature of Europe under contribution for the illustrations of his lucid rhetoric, the arguments of his forcible logic.

The latter, with a fund of genial humor and healthy criticism, peculiar to Americans alone, taught the world how to view life from a new stand-point, and he inculcated useful lessons by directing the thoughts of his readers and addressing himself to the finer fancies.

If Macaulay is pre-eminent as a contributor to such monumental publications as the Encyclopaedia Britannica, Holmes is no less so by his ready adaptation of materials in them ready to his hand, and those who knew him best are well aware that it was not so much felicity of phrase as profundity of thought that lent weight to his

Macaulay died at the age of fifty-three, after having raised himself into a literary prominence which has no parallel

Holmes closed his weary eyes in the last dreamless sleep, which closed a useful life of eighty-five years. Both deserve well of their fellow men, and both have left heritages to all of English speech, which are more precions by the special heroism which finds expression in their lives.

The moralists and teachers of a later age will point our youth to the successful life of America's most genial author, and accentuate his significance as a writer, by an array of his work as a student. A student he ever remained—first and foremost. 1316

FIRST OF THE SEASON

A Course of Lectures Planned by the Young Men's Library.

G. R. WENDLING COMES NEXT WEEK

He Will Be in Atlanta Next Tuesday Eve-ning—A Brilliant Aggregation of Stars Secured.

The directors of the Young Men's Library Association have planned a brilliant course of lectures for the approaching season, and, in their efforts to furnish the public with the best attractions of the lecture platform, they deserve the appreciative thanks of the community.

Every lecturer engaged by the library is a star of the first magnitude, and the In view of the culture that belongs to Atlanta, in connection with the wealth and social refinement that have given prestige to the city, there is no reason why Atlanta should not be as good a lecture field as any other city in the country.

The library is doing the city a valuable service in this direction, and the movement appeals to the support and sympathy of all who are interested in the city's welfare. The directors have not considered the expense involved so much as the good to be accomplished and the special advantage

o be gained. On next Tuesday evening the course of On next Tuesday evening the course of lectures will be inaugurated, and Hon. George R. Wendling, one of the foremost speakers and public men of the country, will deliver the opening lecture of the season. All who have heard the distinguished lecturer concur in the opinion that a brighter or room antartaining speaker a brighter or more entertaining speaker is not to be found on the American plat-

Season tickets, at $3 each, will be placed Season tickets, at $3 each, will be placed on sale this week, and the net proceeds arising from the sale will be applied to the purchase of new books for the library. The directors of the Young Men's Library Association will be in charge of the course, and Mr. J. W. Hamilton, representing the famous Redpath Lyceum Bureau, of New York and Nashville, will co-operate with the directors in their effort to make the season a notable one in every respect.

In addition to Mr. Wendling, the other attractions for the season are as follows:

WHAT MADE IT SPIN.

The Friction of the Earth on Its Poles Charged with a New Function.

"I have a pupil who thinks far above his age," said a toacher in one of the graded schools. "He is not satisfied with what he reads in his textbooks, but goesoutside of them to books in his father's library. Everything that comes to him furnishes food for thought. That is the reason he surprised and amused us to the other day when we were talking about the compass. All the children were delighted with the way the needle always swung around and settled with its point toward the north. Most of them had never seen a compass, but I asked them, out of curiosity, if they knew why the needle acted as it did. I was interested when the little fellow in question spoke up and said he did. He then went on to explain in his childish way how friction made electricity. He told us electricity would make the compass needle tricity would make recommended. Charged with a New Function.

said he did. He then went on to explain in his childish way how friction made electricity. He told us electricity would make the compass needle spin 'around like everything.' Well, now, don't you think,' he said, 'that there must be a great deal of friction at the north pole when the earth truns on it? I know there must be enough to pull this little needle around. Of course his explanation was all wrong, but I thought it very ingenious for one so young. If he doesn't make his mark some day I am very much mistaken.' There is a little man with one, if not both, of his feet on the ladder of success. Doubiless he has access to some valuable books, but his mind would rapidly broaden and his brain develop if his daily visits led him to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, as it would if his father fully realized the value of such searchings and the ease with which the books can now be placed swithin the boy's reach. He has evdently had some very valuable tips from his father, else he would not have been a frequent visitor to the library. The tip, his father should have is that he begin a lesson of economy, savings bank and see that he drops a dime in it each day. With the dime he can pay for the Encyclonpaedia Britannica, and The Constitution will give him the bank.

The educational value of this work to the young is something beyond computation in money, and at the low introductory rates and the very easy terms of payment it is within the reach of any reader of The Constitution who can save the paltry sum of 10 cents each day.

An important thing for the reader to know is that these low rates are not for the purpose of profit on the sales to go to the benefit of The Constitution, but is wholly to bring this new, up-to-date edition before the public.

Here is the plan: We will forward to any one of our readers a complete set of twenty-eight volumes to be paid for at the rate of 10 cents aday, payable monthly, and the remainder of the set will be sent as soon as one-half the payments are completed.

A novel feature in connec and the remainder of the set will be sent as soon as one-half the payments are completed.

A novel feature in connection with this is a beautiful dime registering savings bank, which is furnished free to each subscriber who buys the books, wherein the dime can be deposited each day.

Do not lose sight of the fact that this is only to the readers of The Constitution and none but regular subscribers to this paper are entitled to get the Encyclopaedia Britannica on these terms; all others must buy them from regular dealers and pay full retail prices, from $21 to $35 per set higher than The Constitution's introductory offer.

NEW POLICEMEN

Police Commissioners Elect Eleven Supernumeraries in Regular Session.

APPLICANTS GALORE WERE EXAMINED

Chairman English Introduces a Rule to Require the Age of All Persons Arrested to Be Registered, Elevel new members were added to the police force yesterday afternoon. It was interesting work, this selection of crude material, and the commsisioners were kept busy for several hours in the examniation of applicants and the discussion of their appearance and characteristics.

Two squads were marched in at different times for inspection. There were men of every description in the crowd. Tall men, short men, old gray-bearded men and young, clean-shaven fellows, all hopeful, expectant, waiting with feverish anticipation for the result.
"Walk in here, gentlemen," said Chief

Connolly, opening the door. "Line your-selves up over there by the table." The men filed in slowly. They were all

"What is your name?" asked Chairman English, turning about in his chair and giving an ominous glance over his goldrimmed glasses at the first man in line. He was a young fellow with a red face and a slouch hat, which he fumbled in his brawny hands as he stammered out his name in a weak voice.
"How long have you been in Atlanta?"

"Four years, sir."
"What's your business?"

"Ain't got any now, sir. I used to keep "Have you ever been tried in a criminal "No, sir."

"Well, sit down there and give us a speci-men of your handwriting and read a little from that book over there." All of the applicants in turn were put through this examination and were requested to state their age, give an account of their habits, and say whether they were financially embarrassed. Twenty-five men were inspected and then the board went into a discussion of their merits. By unan-Imous consent they agreed upon the fol-lowing list, which will be added to the members of the supernumerary force: A. J. Ivey, B. Wildener, Daniel Boone, George W. Lake, Clint Glore, G. W. Carson, T. J. McWilliams, F. M. McCurty, George S. Taylor, J. M. Glower and W. P. Avery. All the men will be sworn in this morning and placed at once on the list of

There was a full attendance of the board when Chairman English rapped for order. Mayor Goodwin was there, and remained through the whole session, taking an active part in the discussion.

A communication from ex-Patrolmen Kelly and Hawes, who were discharged at the last meeting of the board, asking for their reinstatement, was read and tabled in mediately.

Then followed the reports of the different departments. The reports of the captains showed the men to have done good work during the month. The detective department, as reported by Chief Wright, had done efficient service. The large number of gambling cases made during the month was the main feature. The report of Chief Connolly covering all departments was read and passed upon. For the Reformatory.

A resolution touching upon the reformatory was introduced by Chairman English. Heretofore no record has been kept of the age of the prisoners brought into the sta-tion house, only the charge, sex and race of the person arrested being entered on the register. "In order," said Captain English, "to definitely ascertain the age of the prisoners brought in by the city officers, I think it would be well to have the station house keepers to enter the exact age of all who are brought in. This movement for a re formatory is taking shape, and, looking to that end, I offer this as a resolution." The session adjourned with the selection of the new men.

Progress in a progressive age is the record made by Dr. Price's Baking Powder. Witness highest honors at the Chicago world's exposition and first award and gold medal at Ualifornia Midwinter fair.
